One of two dance halls ordinances presented to the county board within the last two days will be adopted by the board during the present session. Judging from the preliminary skirmish that followed the introduction of the ordinance committee's proposed law in the Friday morning session. The other ordinance was presented by Supervisor H. M. Culbertson on Thursday.

Under the rules of the board, the ordinance could not be acted upon Friday but had to lay over one day. Upon motion of Supervisor A. M. McClone however, the ordinance was laid over until Wednesday morning. In the meantime copies of the bill will be furnished to every member of the board for closer study.

PUBLIC MEETING
Supervisor Frank R. Appleton, Oneida, chairman of the ordinance committee, announced that the committee will hold an open session in the courthouse at 2:30 next Tuesday afternoon when supervisors and other persons interested will be given opportunity to make suggestions or propose alterations.

An enlivened discussion followed the presentation of the ordinance committee's draft. None of the supervisors, however, questioned the advisability of passing an ordinance, but some of them would have the ordinance made more drastic. Supervisor Culbertson, after hearing the committee's ordinance, declared that it contained some very commendable elements but asked the privilege of having his ordinance discussed on the same day on which the other will be discussed. This ordinance was referred Thursday to the ordinance committee consisting of Mr. Appleton, J. G. Hildebrandt of New London and E. F. Speer of Bovina. Comparison of the two drafts shows that the ordinance committee's ordinance is somewhat more lengthy and probably more comprehensive.

FIX CLOSING HOUR
Mr. Culbertson would set the closing hour of dance halls at 1 o'clock. The committee would set it at 2 o'clock. The yearly license as proposed by the committee would be $10 and each individual dance permit would be $5. Mr. Culbertson would fix the permit fee at $5 also. Both ordinances are alike in fixing the compensation of dance supervisors at $5 a night, but Mr. Culbertson would also provide the supervisors with mileage at the rate of 10 cents a mile.

The Culbertson ordinance would have the county chairman grant permits between board sessions, the other ordinance reserves this for the town and village supervisors. Dance supervisors in the committee's ordinance are named "inspectors." The sheriff and his deputies have the same powers as "inspectors" and when they serve in the capacity of dance hall inspectors are entitled to the same compensation, according to the committee's ordinance. The same ordinance exempts private dances at which no admission is charged and dances conducted by lodges or dances held in churches and parochial schools.

EXCLUDE CHILDREN
Both ordinances follow the state law in forbidding possession of or traffic in liquor in the hall, excluding children under 16 years except when accompanied by parents or legal guardian, and exempting cities that have satisfactory dance hall regulation. Violations of these state laws are punishable by fines of $25 to $1,000 and imprisonment of from 30 days to a year. Minor violations subject the dance hall proprietor to revocation of his license and suspension of business.

Among other provisions of the dance regulation ordinance introduced by Supervisor Culbertson is the appointment and assignment by the county board of an indefinite number of dance supervisors who are to be compensated at $5 a night at dances, and 10 cents a mile for traveling expenses.

Dance halls and roadhouses under the same ordinance would be required to close at 1 o'clock in the morning and have its lights out by 1:15. Licenses are to be procured from the county clerk and acted upon by the county board, or if not in session, by the board of supervisors.

Ashland—Joe Wisniewski, brakeman on the "Soo" line, is alive and not badly injured although an automobile he was driving left the highway, plunged down a 60 foot ravine, struck a telephone pole in its flight and turned turtle four times before it finally landed right side up at the bottom of the ravine. Wisniewski climbed out of the car when it had completed its flight, climbed up the side of the ravine and was picked up by friends and taken to a hospital for examination.

A cut in his forehead and sprained back were his only injuries.

As Intruder Clubs Victim
To Death

Minneapolis—Hennepin co. authorities Friday are looking for the masked intruder who strode into the home of Duane Chapel, 64, at Maple Plain Thursday night, and clubbed the aged man to death before the eyes of his horrified wife.

Chapel, killed while taking a nap on his couch, had no chance what ever to defend himself, and his invalid wife was helpless to aid him. For nearly three hours the woman remained in the house with the body, a nervous wreck unable to leave her room. The alarm was given by Guy Chapel, 24, who returned from work to find tragedy.

Questioning was resumed Friday of Mrs. Chapel and Guy, both of whom were brought here for questioning Thursday night. After four hours of putting queries, the authorities had learned little, but hope Friday will bring more clues. The fact that Mrs. Chapel was a nervous patient before the killing of her husband Friday added to the difficulties of the authorities.

Madison—Federal agents stationed in Madison today were prepared for a string of arrests of prohibition violators among University of Wisconsin students and others, according to Robert O. Quick, prohibition group chief. Federal agents will accompany each of the ten special trains which will go to Chicago, some leaving Friday night.

The precautionary measures were taken as result of reports of plans for taking a quantity of liquor on the trains, the federal agent said. In addition to inspection of trains, agents will guard highways into Chicago and follow up other reported sources of liquor which is said to have been coming into Madison, officers said.

Both ordinances follow the state law in forbidding possession of or traffic in liquor in the hall, excluding children under 16 years except when accompanied by parents or legal guardian, and exempting cities that have satisfactory dance hall regulation. Violations of these state laws are punishable by fines of $25 to $1,000 and imprisonment of from 30 days to a year. Move Of Indiana Man Does Not

Washington—The open season for "favorite sons" in presidential politics has begun. Senator James Watson's announcement that he will be a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination if only to keep the Indiana delegation from going to the convention instructed for Senator Hiram Johnson is a strategic move which would be candidates are bound to emulate.

Former Governor Frank Lowden of Illinois would have a good excuse to enter the contest in his state "if only to keep it from going to Johnson." So also might Senator Capper of Kansas or Senator Pepper of Pennsylvania or Senator Borah of Idaho or any of the other men who might be favorably regarded in their own states as against a candidate from the outside.

On the surface what Senator Watson's statement means in practical politics is that he will make the race for himself but when he goes to the convention he will swing his delegates to the Coolidge band wagon if the latter starts moving toward success. Such a step always places the "favorite son" in a position later on to ob-

Problem

By Associated Press
Memphis—Improvement of river channels of the Mississippi valley for navigation purposes will afford a practical solution for many of the marketing problems now confronting farmers of the central states, Halleck W. Seaman, vice president of the City National bank, Clinton, Ia., declared Friday before the convention of the Mississippi association.

Instead of extending direct financial assistance to grain growers as proposed in some quarters, Mr. Seaman urged development of waterways as an avenue of help to agriculture that would allow the farmer to retain something of his self respect as a business man by marketing his own crop.

Farmers will be helped, he said, if the government will improve these Mississippi valley channels and extend its large line operations on them, thus providing a shipper reliable transportation.

Albert Lea, Minn.—Three brothers, two from Wilmart and one from Sioux City, Ia., Friday identified the body of the man found on the Illinois tracks at Glenview, near here, early Thursday as that of their brother, Joe Donohue of Le Mars, Ia., real estate man and cattle buyer.

When Pilot Jack Knight, veteran of the winged mail carriers returned to earth at Platte, Neb. Thursday night, after a full hour in the air during which he was in almost constant touch with the Omaha, Aid Mail hangar nearly 300 miles away it was proven conclusively that the one-man broadcasting station for planes is a success, officials asserted.

Omaha, Neb.—Removal of that element of air mail flying which has been the bane of not a few of the men who have braved the air's whims over desolate places where a forced landing off the beaten trails meant isolation, is but one of the possibilities seen in the successful conclusion of two days of tests of broadcasting from an air mail route, under service conditions of the human voice.

Col. Lowden, Former Governor Of Illinois, Is Country Squire Of U. S. Politics

OREGON, ILL.—Outstanding country squire among American presidential candidates. Farm management his occupation, cattle breeding his hobby and horseback riding over his own 5,000 acres his favorite exercise.

Such is Frank O. Lowden, former Illinois governor, who is hailed as a real farmer even by his neighbors. He has been the real "back to the soil" movement, for he has returned in both residence and interest to the rustic atmosphere from which he started.

When Lowden bought the first tract of Sinissippi Farm, 25 years ago, he joined the community under the handicap of being a stranger, known as the son-in-law of the Pullman Company magnate and weaned from the soil by years of city law practice. It required some time for him to merge with the landscape and to be accepted.

In Oregon the people recall his starting to tour the district in his first Congressional campaign in 1906, driven by a coachman behind a pair of stepping bang-tailed horses.

"For heaven's sake, colonel, get down to earth or you'll be snowed under," advised a courthouse sage. "Hire a buggy from the livery stable when you go out after votes."

PRACTICAL FARMER
Lowden recognized good advice, and a never-outgrown interest in farming coupled with keen political sense have made him, to the core, a farmer.

Around the courthouse the loungers give ready appraisal of the community "first citizen." To them all is "Colonel," not "Governor" and not "Frank."

"NOT A GOOD POLITICIAN"
"He isn't a good politician," says one.

"He's too conscientious. Take when he was governor. Our country didn't get any roads or big favors. He didn't want it thought he was spending the state's money on his home folks."

"Well, the colonel is democratic all right," testifies another admirer. "He doesn't walk around slapping folks on the shoulder, but he knows your name whenever you meet him, is glad to see you and ready to listen to you. The Lowden kids are all right too, not a bit snipish."

That is the home town slant on the man who narrowly missed the presidential nomination in 1920, refused the ambassadorship to England this fall and may yet reach the White House.

Lowden was born in 1861 at Sunrise City, Minn., son of the town blacksmith. It was pioneer country then, and his mother used to take him as a baby with her to get the cows for fear Indians might steal him. The family moved to Hardin county, Iowa, when the boy was 7. There he grew up teaching school, to pay his way through the University of Iowa.

In 1886 he moved to Chicago, worked in a law office while going to law school and finished the course in a single year at the head of his class. Ten years later he was a leader at the bar and married to Florence Pullman. He quit practicing law in 1906. When not in public office, most of his time since then has been spent on the farm.

Chicago—Bearing on their faces the tattoo brands of Arabian slavery, Rose and Helen Manerian, two young Armenian girls, are in the Chicago Memorial hospital where doctors are gradually removing the marks that had been a sign of servitude.

The two have been brought to this country from Arabia by their brother, Horik, who learned of their whereabouts through English Tommies, according to the story told doctors and nurses at the hospital.

It was in 1915 when trouble started for Rose and Helen. With their father, mother and an elder brother they resided among the mountains in Urfa, Mesopotamia. Then came the Turkish troops and fighting. The father and brother disappeared. No one knows their fate.

The two children and their mother were herded into the desert where the mother died of exhaustion. A raid by Arabian corsairs carried the pair by camel caravan to the land of Ur, where a wealthy Arabian nomad became their owner.

Here it was that tattoos were placed on the foreheads, cheeks, and lips of the girls as a token of possession. Their master put them to watching sheep and caring for camel train as they moved over the country. After thearmistice, British soldiers learned of the two girls, not in touch with their relatives, helped to free them. Now in this country they hope to learn the language and to take their place as Americans in the household of their brother.

Occupation

Washington, D. C.—Senator Magnus Johnson, the Minnesota Farmer-Laborite, wants to "work hard" in the next congress and he so informed Senator Lodge, the Republican leader, when they met Friday for the first time. Senator Smoot, Republican, Utah, introduced them.

Senator Johnson said he desired to be of service and to help in committee work as far as he was able. Senator Lodge then offered on behalf of the Republican organization to provide committee places from the Republican quota to Sen. Johnson, and his colleague Sen. Shipstead. The two Minnesota senators will decide later, however whether they will take their committee places from the Republicans or Democrats. Their party has had no representation heretofore.

When he was presented to Senator Lodge, Senator Johnson recalled that he was a Republican delegate to the 1916 Republican convention and heard Mr. Lodge read the party's resolutions. He also informed the Massachusetts senator that Mrs. Johnson was of Massachusetts stock, a descendant of Israel Putnam.

BULLETIN.

Berlin.—The Stresemann government was defeated on the question of confidence in the Reichstag Friday by a vote of 155 for the resolution expressing confidence, and 230 against it. Because of this adverse vote the cabinet, it is announced, will retire.

By Associated Press

Berlin—An unequivocal vote of confidence was demanded of the Reichstag Friday by Chancellor Stresemann, who informed the legislature that he did not propose to retain office on the strength of the indirect approval accorded him in the filing of independent "no confidence" resolutions by the Socialists and the German Nationalists. Neither of these, he pointed out, will be able in the present situation to command the majority necessary to unseat him.

The government, asserted—Stresemann, declined to be made the beneficiary of party tactics and would only continue in office on being given a clearly defined vote of confidence.

The three government parties in the Reichstag immediately introduced a motion to this effect.

The chancellor's demand for a clean cut vote of confidence threw the parliamentary situation again into confusion and revived the possibility of military dictatorship headed by General Von Seekt as an early development.

DEMANDS CERTAINTY
By refusing to become the doubtful beneficiary of the rejection of the opposition resolutions through separate balloting on each, the chancellor confronted the Reichstag with the choice between a decisive vote of approval or the rejection of the joint resolution of approval drawn up by the coalition parties.

It was plain that this joint resolution could only be pushed through with the votes of the Nationalists or the Socialists and neither of these parties, up to noon Friday, had indicated a readiness to recede from the positions of disapproval reflected in their respective resolutions.

The question of who would succeed Dr. Stresemann as chancellor in the event of a vote of lack of confidence, is not being discussed, political opinion inclining to the assumption that President Ebert would decree a non-parliamentary form of government in that eventuality.

ORDERS REDS DISSOLVED
General Von Seekt, national commander of the Reichswehr, Friday ordered the dissolution of the German Communist party and the confiscation of its funds. His decree also prohibited the holding of Communist meetings and the publication of Communist newspapers.

It was later stated that the dissolution order also applied to all Nationalist and National Socialist party organizations.

The order fell like a bomb shell on the Reichstag Friday morning and seemed to have a decisive bearing on the attitude of those parties in the present situation toward the Stresemann government.

The Communists were especially furious and angry. Scenes were enacted in the Reichstag over General Seekt's sudden and drastic measures.

Communist organizations are well organized and well supplied with money.

INDIANS' CLAIM TO N. Y. LAND BASED ON LAW, ONEIDAS TOLD

New York Attorney Explains Status Of Indians' Claim In East

As a matter of law, the people in possession of the land claimed by the Six Nations of Indians have no warranty or title to the property they occupy. Oneida Indians were told Thursday at an all day meeting in Epworth hall, Oneida, where Attorney E. A. Everett, Potsdam, N. Y., reported on his investigation into the claims of the six nations to land worth $6,000,000 in the heart of New York state. Mr. Everett said the report had been concurred in by a prominent New York legal firm. The report was adopted at Thursday's meeting which lasted from 10 o'clock in the morning until late in the afternoon. Chief William K. Cornelius of Munoy, Ontario, Canada, interpreted the report in the Oneida language.

20,000,000 ACRES
Mr. Everett's report indicated that approximately 20,000,000 acres of land in New York and Pennsylvania had been surveyed by Sir William John in 1783 and these boundaries were not changed when the government granted the land to the Indians in 1784 in a treaty which stated that the Indians would retain possession of the land as long as the sun shines and the water runs.

Mr. Everett said that as a matter of law the Indians are vested in a fee simple title to the land in controversy. Preparations have been made for some time to prosecute the claim of the Indians to the disputed territory.

IDENTIFY CAR AS ONE STOLEN HERE

Word has been received at the local police station from the department of justice at St. Paul, Minn., that the Chevrolet automobile held there is the same car that was stolen in Appleton this month from C. J. Thomas.

No full description of the thieves has been received here, making it uncertain whether they are Appleton men. They will be prosecuted by the federal government for transporting a stolen automobile into another state. The car will be returned by the company that insured the car.

Mrs. Laura Cornelius Kellogg has been the principal leader in the movement and has made several trips to the east to confer with attorneys and government officials. Mr. Everett was brought to Wisconsin to explain to the Indians here the exact status of the Indians' claim.

PANTOMIME EMPHASIZES AUCTION HELP FOR POOR

A silent story of misery and want at Thanksgiving time was told to students of Appleton high school on Friday morning when a pantomime showing the benefits of the senior auction was presented in the assembly period. The auction stunts previous to this year have emphasized the fun that the students have, but the pantomime told of the joy that the gifts which are made possible by the auction bring to the homes of the needy. The students were given a great deal of praise for the way in which they held their audience with the silent drama. The auction will take place at the high school on Wednesday afternoon.

Splendid Program Offered At Formal Opening Of Manufacturers And Jobbers Exposition—Closes On Saturday

Appleton people showed they are interested in their home community and what it is doing by flocking in large numbers to Armory G where the Manufacturers and Jobbers exposition, arranged by the United Commercial Travelers, opened Thursday night. Exhibitors completed their displays shortly before the evening crowd arrived at the armory and everything was in readiness for the formal opening.

Addresses by Mayor Henry Reuter, George H. Packard and Attorney J. L. Johns sounded the keynote of the exposition and called attention to the variety of products manufactured and sold in the valley. They pointed out that the prosperity of the valley is not dependent upon any one industry and that nearly everything that man needs is made within a few miles of home.

An excellent musical program also was offered during the evening. One of the big features was distribution of prizes. Fifty-three gifts were announced but 17 persons did not call for their presents. A list of prize winners who did not call for their gifts will be left at Schlitz Brothers drug store where it may be seen by persons who believe they might have won a prize.

Decoration of booths and arrangement of the displays of manufacturers and jobbers required the time of more than 200 persons Thursday afternoon.

Practically all of the exhibits were delivered by noon and the work of unpacking them progressed rapidly. While this was being done by certain persons others were busy trimming booths. The general color scheme of the building is blue, gold and white, the colors of the United Commercial Travelers association. In decorating their booths exhibitors were not restricted to any particular colors.

The decorations of the building and booths are particularly handsome. While the general color scheme is carried out in some of the booths, the decorations of the majority are as varied as the exhibits they contain. Wool, for instance, was extensively used for trimming by the Appleton Woolen Mills, while the Tuttle Press company used colored crepe paper which it manufactures.

The general effect of the decorations and arrangement of booths is pleasing. Two rows of booths occupy the center of the floor extending almost the entire length of the building. The others are arranged around the outside. A large horseshoe on which appears the word "Welcome" is suspended from the ceiling near the center of the building.

The one thing that impresses the visitors most on making the rounds of the booths is the variety of manufactured products of the industrial plants in Appleton and Fox river valley.

Fox river valley is not only known throughout the country for its paper mills, but also for its knitting mills. Four of these companies occupy booths. The Jersild Knitting company of Neenah has a double booth which the visitor faces on entering the building and has a knitting machine in operation which shows how sweaters are made. The booth of the Menasha Knitting company is just back of it.

SHOW WIRE MAKING

Appleton Superior Knitting Works has an attractive booth in the middle of the floor and is exhibiting knitted coats, scarfs and hockey caps. The Weber Knitting Mills is exhibiting a line of sweaters for men and women.

Appleton Wire Works is exhibiting wire in the different stages of manufacture from the raw material to the finished product when it is ready to go through the loom and be woven into wire cloth. The different meshes of wire and pictures showing the growth of the plant during the 27 years of its existence also are on exhibition.

Valley Dairy Products company has a unique display in the way of a picture showing the handling of milk and cream from the dairy farm to the doorstep. Trains and delivery wagons are operated by means of an electric motor.

FOR HOME BUILDER

One of the most elaborate displays is that of Hoefensperger Bros. who display enough cuts of choice meats and sausages to stock an ordinary market. In the building line Standard Manufacturing company of Appleton and Brenner & Grob Fuel & Supply company of Kaukauna, have exhibited interest visitors, particularly those who contemplate building homes. The former shows a kitchen equipment and the latter 50 different kinds of faced brick which is manufactured.

The prizes to be given away during the exposition are on exhibition in the information booth in the northwest corner of the building. At the southeast corner is the refreshment stand. The chamber of commerce occupies the northwest corner and the Valley Dairy Products company the southwest corner.

While it is impossible to mention the displays of all the exhibitors because of the space it would require it may be said in passing the manufacturers deserve credit for giving home people an opportunity to see and inspect the goods which they ship all over the world.

Names of manufacturers and jobbers occupying the booths are:

Jersild Knitting company, Menasha Knitting Mills, Appleton Wire Works, Langstadt-Meyer company, Appleton Superior Knitting Works, Appleton Woolen Mills, Appleton Post-Crescent, Schlafer Hardware company, Tuttle Press company, S. JOHNSON URGES HIS CANDIDACY
Hiram W. Johnson, senator from California, has done an unprecedented thing. He has announced, uninvited, that he is a candidate for president of the United States. Summoning reporters to meet him at an appointed hour, he gave them a carefully prepared mimeographed statement. It was his platform—the platform he hopes to dictate to the Republican convention next June. Never in the history of the Republic has a man dared to say to the people: "These are my principles, and they should be yours. Adopt them and make me the executive to put them into operation, for I am the one man who can carry them out."

The records of America show that her greatest men have always been unwilling to seek the highest office in the land. In the face of an overwhelming demand, many of them have hesitated, feeling themselves unfit for so vast a responsibility. Not so Mr. Johnson. He recognizes his fitness and proclaims it. He compares himself with his fellows and finds himself their superior.
George Washington had to be dragged into the convention which framed the constitution. "He deemed himself a soldier and man of action, and no statesman." When his name was in everyone's mouth as the only logical man for the presidency, he said he was an old man, and doubted his capacity. "The acceptance," he said, "would be attended with more diffidence and reluctance than I ever experienced before in my life." Senator Johnson is neither diffident nor reluctant.

Thomas Jefferson became a candidate against his will. Madison was his choice. "The little spice of ambition which I had in my younger days has long since evaporated," he wrote. But he could not resist the pressure of his party. He made no campaign except for writing a single letter, and remained quietly at Monticello until the votes were counted which placed him second to John Adams and gave him the vice-presidency.

Andrew Jackson, placed in nomination by the legislature of Tennessee, wrote a week later: "I have no desire, nor do I expect ever to be called to fill the presidential chair, but should this be the case, contrary to my wishes or expectations, I am determined it shall be without any exertion on my part."

Abraham Lincoln discouraged the mention of his name in connection with the highest office. In reply to a letter, he wrote: "I beg that you will not give it a further mention. Seriously, I do not think I am fit for the presidency." But Senator Johnson says he is fit.

Gen. Badeau, military secretary to Gen. Grant, wrote: "When he was first approached on the subject of the presidency, he resented the liberty and repelled all discussions of the theme. I have often seen men who hoped to draw him out receive very mortifying and unexpected rebuffs. . . . He would not admit to himself that he must take up the new role. The approach of the crisis awoke no ambition in him." How different in the case of Senator Johnson!

Rutherford B. Hayes, replying to one who had mentioned him for the presidency, wrote: "If I thought there was the slightest danger of so obscure a personage as I being attacked with that wretched mania, an itching for the White house, I would beg for the prayers of your church for my deliverance."

But Senator Johnson has itched for years. So did Henry Clay—and the people scratched him. So did James G. Blaine. So did Stephen A. Douglas. So did Champ Clark—who might possibly have been nominated and elected had his smarting desire not led him from Washington to lobby for votes at the Baltimore convention. The people of the United States have yet to elect to the presidency a man who announced to them that he was their self-appointed candidate.

A NERVOUS BREAKDOWN NOT INSANITY
A physician who specialized in brain diseases for some twenty-five years attended a patient in his office by exclaiming, "Why, I'm going crazy." Waving his hands he yelled, "I'm crazy right now." The brief account of the doctor's physical collapse was printed in the newspapers this week, as it was a good human-interest story and a little out of the ordinary. The physicians at the hospital diagnosed the trouble as nervous breakdown, and this is probably what it was. Doubtless, the doctor had worked hard and lost a lot of sleep, and had failed to prescribe for himself his own medicine.

An insane man would not have said, "I'm going crazy." He would have imagined that everybody else was mad. The remark suggested that the physician's brain was functioning rationally. A nervous breakdown is very serious. The time to treat and cure it is when the mind first begins to notice mustiness, fatigue and nervousness. Most persons who think intensely and work hard sometimes feel that they "are going crazy." That's the symptom which means "see the doctor, and keep the will strong."

SAVING MONEY
The present-day phrasing of Shakespeare's wiseword, "Put money in thy purse," is "Put money in the bank." There was less money in Shakespeare's time than now, and more barter, and the average man could put his savings in his purse. The rich man had his wealth in land or goods and the fairly well-to-do citizen had his in the kitchen larder and under the floor. In the present day era of apartment houses, automobiles and installment-payments, the average person has very little property, and in all but a few cases his possessions are such as the moving van can carry. That part of his property which is not an equity in furniture, a car, a radio-receiving set or a musical instrument, is money. And the only safe place for money is the bank.

Approximately one-fourth of all the inhabitants of the United States have savings accounts in banks and trust companies. The savings bank division of the American Bankers' association computes that the total savings in financial institutions are equal to $158 per capita. After taking into consideration the savings which are deposited in building and loan associations, the regular amortization payments on investments in homes, and the immense increase in the volume of life insurance, it is apparent that we are becoming a saving people. We are putting money in the bank.

From the broad, technical standpoint, there are two important facts in connection with savings deposits in the banks and trust companies. One is the grand total of the deposits, which denotes the growth of wealth. The other is the number of depositors or accounts, which indicates the widening distribution of wealth and the general development of economic methods among the people. The savings deposits amount to nearly $18,000,000,000. The total has considerably more than doubled in ten years. In 1912 the savings aggregated $8,423,275,000. That is a gain of virtually $10,000,000,000. The increase in the number of depositors is even more interesting and satisfying. At this time there are 30,500,000 accounts, comparing with 12,581,316 in 1912, an increase of 15,000,000. "Put thy money in the bank" is very good advice. Capital is the power which assures independence. Distribution of wealth is one of the most reliable guarantees of the longevity of republicanism.

Health Talks

Noted Physician and Author
Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Writer's name and address printed. TAINT IN THE BLOOD
It was our intention to string about a score of talks on the subject of the veins. But I pause to inquire—what is there in the veins to talk so much about? Well, I am frank to admit that so far as I can testify there is nothing in them but blood. So we'll have a little chat about blood. When discussing various veins we switched off onto the subject of healing; a subject which was suggested by the remarks about various ulcers. There is a very popular fancy that when a sore or ulcer or wound heals without difficulty the individual has good or pure blood and when healing is delayed the individual has poor or tainted blood. Thus, you see, we come soon or late to the subject we mean to talk about, whether 'tis a taint or 'tain't a taint that makes cuts and sores heal quickly in some persons and slowly or not at all in others.
First let us clear the ring of the cobwebs of superstition and misunderstanding. Persons who have such a disease as syphilis, which certainly contains a taint in the blood or impure blood, as a general rule show little or no rash or eruption about the face. On the other hand, persons with pimples and other skin troubles, which appear about the face generally have clean, pure blood, so far as any tests available today indicate. This mere statement of fact ought to put out of consideration the popular notion that a "bad complexion" has any particular relation to or dependence on the condition of the blood. A bad complexion or a skin rash, as a general working rule, is far less likely to be associated with poison or impurity in the blood than an ordinary headache, a touch of alleged rheumatism, a little neuritis or a general tired feeling.
The natural healing process, like natural growth, goes on at a certain rate which varies with different tissues but is uniform for the body as a whole; nothing we can do will hasten the healing rate, though there are a thousand things that can and so do that impede and delay the healing process—for instance smearing a cut or sore with carbolic salve. Carbolic may destroy some germs but it is more likely to destroy the delicate young epithelial cells which are being produced by nature to replace the skin or mucous coverings.
About every other antiseptic or germicidal substance that may be applied to a wound behaves similarly. Indeed, it is to be considered rather a misfortune when the use of an antiseptic or germicide is necessary. In the judgment of the physician or surgeon, once the wound or ulcer has been disinfected, sterilized or cleaned. Nine times out of 10 the slow or delayed healing which the victim of a wound or sore attributes to poor blood is really due to the daily destruction of delicate new tissue cells, the scaffolding erected by nature, by the ill advised use of antiseptics or germicides. Scientific neglect, as I explained the other day, is the ideal management of wounds or sores, small or great, in the scientific or intelligent management of wounds or sores or ulcers germ destroyers have no place at all after the preliminary cleaning up.

Q. What was the nationality of Dr. Charles P. Steinmetz? L. C.
A. Dr. Steinmetz was born in Breslau, Germany.
Q. Is reading injurious to the eyes of a sick person? K. E. L.
A. There is a direct relationship between the condition of the eyes and the condition of the body generally, according to the National Committee for the Prevention of Blindness. In consequence, persons recovering from serious illness may subject their eyes to severe strain by reading small type or poorly printed matter. The committee advocates that books selected for invalids should be printed in large, distinct type, and that patients should not try to read too many books while in a weakened state.
Q. Are many of the moving pictures taken in New York? A. G.
A. Of the pictures made in the United States in 1922, 84 per cent were made in California and 12 per cent were made in New York. The remaining 4 per cent were made in various places.

St. James Palace was the royal residence and seat of British government from William III to Victoria. In 1837 the royal residence was transferred to Buckingham Palace, but many offices are still located in the old palace and its name is still closely associated with the British Government.

WHAT IS GOING ON IN THE WORLD
BY CHARLES P. STEWART
With the ex-crown prince back home and the exiled ex-kaiser reported about to join him, the world's wondering if there's going to be an attempt to put the Hohenzollerns on the German throne again.
Germany hints she's going to break the peace treaty, so far as France is concerned. She says France broke it by seizing the Ruhr and the Rhine—why shouldn't she break it too? What she means is to stop even talking about paying war damages to France.
Germany proposes also to abandon the Ruhr and the Rhine—end—to let them go, as lost to her, for the present. Her idea's to make France support their inhabitants. France would like to have them permanently independent, as "buffer" countries between herself and Germany. But Germany plans to get them back later.

WORSE TO COME?
France's counter-threat is to extend her Ruhr and Rhine seizure including the important German railroad center, Frankfurt; also to seize the great German seaport, Hamburg, especially its shipping and custom house.
This threat greatly upsets the English. They say the Hamburg seizure would be the last thing needed to destroy the Anglo-French wartime friendship. Italy is alarmed also, so are business men in the United States.
The anxiety of these onlooker-countries is natural. Their own interests suffer, world conditions are so disturbed. France's policy is calculated to disturb them worse.

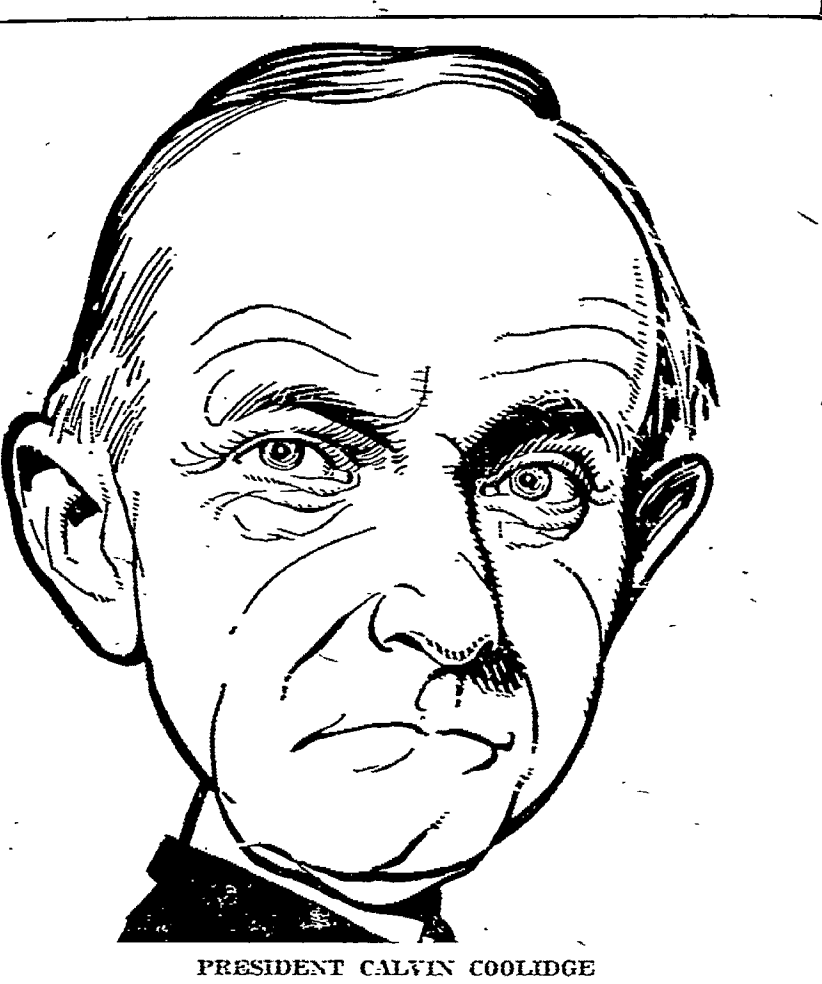

URGES TARIFF WALL
Premier Baldwin wants a tariff wall around England, for nearly a century free trade's stronghold.
To see if his country agrees, Baldwin's called a national election Dec. 6. If the country does agree, he'll get another Conservative majority in Parliament and protection will be its slogan. If not, he'll lose his present majority and a free trade premier will succeed him.
After the Conservatives, the Laborites are the strongest English parliamentary group. They hoped to win the next election but didn't expect one so soon. Perhaps the time for a Labor victory isn't ripe yet.
The Laborites, who are free traders, were outclassed by both Conservatives and Laborites last year, but this was partly because of a party split. They may unite to defend free trade.

Pioneer Hortonville Woman Is 88 Years Old

Mrs. Mathilda Schulz Proved Herself Practical Farmer Of Her Locality

Special to Post-Crescent
Hortonville—Mrs. Mathilda Schulz, who celebrated her eighty-eighth birthday anniversary Sunday, Nov. 18, is one of the very remaining pioneer settlers of the village of Hortonville. She came to the township when little of the land was cleared, and made a record for herself as a practical farmer, not only conducting the farm during the Civil war in the absence of her husband, but by making a success of raising fruit and other crops.

The family lived on the farm for 43 years and raised 11 children, 7 of whom are living today. During these years Mrs. Schulz became a practical nurse and a practical farmer also. She was famous in that vicinity for her cherry and apple orchards, her vineyard and vegetable and flower gardens. While her husband served in the Civil war she managed the farm alone and did it creditably.

HOME BURNS
Misfortunes as well as joys came to the family. The homestead and all but a few household effects were consumed by fire in 1885. Taking the loss philosophically they built a new home and celebrated its completion with a housewarming at Christmas time.

Mr. and Mrs. Schulz sold the farm ten years later to their son Charles, its present occupant, and built themselves a home in Hortonville village. They celebrated their golden wedding anniversary in 1910. Mr. Schulz died in 1915.

Mrs. Schulz still is hale and hearty and is actively interested in home and church. Relatives and friends gathered at her home Sunday to honor her eighty-eighth birthday anniversary and spent the time informally.

The children are: Mrs. Carl Sauer, Mrs. August Boyer and Charles Schulz Hortonville; Mrs. Robert Messmer and Mrs. Charles Fromm, Milwaukee; Mrs. R. C. Kuhn, Minneapolis and Fred Schulz.

Those who attended the birthday celebration were: Mr. and Mrs. Robert Messmer and son Robert, Mrs. L. Gelheer, Miss Elza Fashel and Lloyd Schulz, Milwaukee; Mrs. R. C. Kuhn and Mrs. O. B. Schulz, Minneapolis; Emil Schwebbs, the Rev. and Mrs. G. E. Boettcher and daughter, Capt. and Mrs. F. O. Smith and son, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Behrend and daughter, Ella, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Serwall, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Roessler, Jr., and children, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schulz and Mr. and Mrs. August Boyer, Hortonville.

SETTLED IN MILWAUKEE
Landing in New York, the family boarded a train for Milwaukee and settled there. Mrs. Schulz became a dressmaker for the first families of the city. She met Fred Schulz and was married after a month's courtship. The couple moved to Watertown where they lived for three years. Mr. Schulz then sold his land and moved to a farm of 129 acres in town of Hortonville in 1883.

Only 20 acres of this land was cleared at the time. The rest was covered with heavy timber. This was at a time when the Indians were numerous in this locality, and many of them passed the family's door exchanging baskets of pork, bread, fruit and other farm supplies.

ZION CHURCH CELEBRATES ITS 40TH ANNIVERSARY

FIRST PASTOR COMES BACK TO PREACH SERMON

Three Services On Sunday Commemorate Founding Of Parish In 1883

CHURCH IS FREE OF DEBT

Active Membership Has Made Congregation a Leader In Appleton Churches

ZION Lutheran congregation will celebrate its fortieth anniversary on Sunday, Nov. 25. The celebration will mark the thirty-third year which the pastor, the Rev. Theodore Marti, has spent here in charge of the church.

Three services will be held at the church on Sunday. Dr. K. Hemminghaus, founder of the parish, and now president of Luther seminary in St. Paul, will preach the German sermon at the 10:15 service and will preach in English at the 2:30 service. The Rev. Otto Kubitz of Madison, who was formerly pastor of Zion congregation, will preach in English at the 9 o'clock service and in German at the 2:30 service.

The program will begin at 9 o'clock Sunday morning when the Rev. Mr. Kuehlitz will preach. Children of the Zion school and Sunday school will sing two psalms, "Rejoice Ye Pure of Heart" and "Praise the Lord." The choir also will sing at this service. The Rev. Mr. Hemminghaus will preach in German at the 10:15 service and the choir will sing. The Rev. Mr. Kubitz will preach in German and the Rev. Hemminghaus in English at the 2:30 service.

PARISH SOCIAL

Social celebrations of the event will begin immediately after the afternoon service. A parish social and chicken supper has been planned for Sunday afternoon and evening with a program of informal addresses, dialogues and songs. An orchestra will play throughout the afternoon. On Monday evening, the senior young people's organization will have its celebration and on Tuesday, a similar celebration is to be held by the young people's society. The school children will have their celebration on Monday and Tuesday.

STARTED JUNE 12, 1883

It was 40 years ago on June 12, that the Zion Lutheran parish came into existence and rapidly grew to have 47 voting members. Harm Rademacher is the only member of the first vestry of the parish still living. Dr. Hemminghaus was the founder of the parish. On Sept. 16, 1883, just three months after the organization of the congregation, the site of the present church, two lots at the corner of Ogden and Wisconsin streets was bought. Plans for the new church were prepared by H. Lehn and he was awarded the contract for the building. The entire project, lots and church cost $3,800.

According to the annals of the church, the day on which the cornerstone was laid was cold and dreary. The ceremony was attended by the majority of the parish and there were some visitors from a neighboring parish at Oshkosh. The Rev. H. A. Alwardt preached the German sermon and the pastor preached the English sermon. The usual keepsakes including $51. issues of the Evening Crescent, Daily Post, Weeker and Volksfreund were placed in the stone, along with the names of members of the church vestry and the city council.

DEDICATE IN MAY

The same speakers were present when the church was dedicated on May 25, 1884. This time there were 400 visitors from Oshkosh alone. In the meantime, the number of the parish had increased another charge and the Rev. L. W. Graef of Worcester, Ohio, was pastor. He soon resigned because of ill health and in January 1884 Otto Max Ham, a candidate of theology, was accepted here. He was ordained and installed as a pastor in Appleton after he had been here several months. In 1880, the Rev. Theodore Merz came to Appleton from Clintonville when the Rev. Mr. Ham was called to Ann Arbor, Mich.

Almost from the first Zion parish has had its own parochial school. It started in 1883 with 20 children who gathered in a small building at the corner of Washington and Oneida streets. The present Zion school is a four-room structure with a teaching staff of four who teach more than 160 children. It was on Nov. 8, 1885 that the first school house was built on the site of the present parsonage. The first teacher in the school was Adam Stumpf, but the work soon became too heavy for one man and Albert Linseman was engaged as a teacher.

PLAN NEW CHURCH

The year following the arrival of Rev. Mr. Marti, the debt of $1500 on the church property was cancelled. In 1892, plans for a larger church building were made but the financial depression of 1893 made it impossible to consider the church project. In 1893, the parish bought two lots and the parsonage on Commercial street from the former pastor for $1650. The school building was then moved to the lots on Commercial street and an addition built on it. The parsonage was moved to its present site on Oneida street next to the church. These repairs caused a debt of $7,000 but this was entirely wiped out by 1901.

A new church was dedicated in 1901 at $10,000 was pledged by January, 1902. This amount was pledged in less time through the efforts of the pastor and the new church was dedicated on Feb. 22, 1903. The plans were drawn for this church by F.

CELEBRATES ANNIVERSARY

Zion Lutheran congregation on Sunday will celebrate its fortieth anniversary. The Rev. Theodore Marti (upper right) has been its pastor for thirty-three years and the growth of the congregation is largely due to his untiring efforts. The Rev. H. Hemminghaus (lower right) founder of the congregation and its first pastor, will be one of the chief speakers at the anniversary celebration.

Velguth of Milwaukee. The organ was dedicated on July 12 of the same year. This church cost $50,000.

ENLARGE PARSONAGE

When the church celebrated its silver anniversary in 1903, the parsonage of the church was enlarged. Three years later the church acquired what was known as the Buchholz property, two lots and a dwelling adjacent to the church property for $2,800. These were dedicated on Aug. 13, 1911.

Certainly one of the proudest days in the history of the church was experienced on July 9, 1922 when Zion congregation paid off its last dollar of indebtedness. To pay off its debts with such dispatch means a great deal of work for the pastor and for many members of the church who were active in various kinds of church work. The congregation numbers approximately 350 young members or heads of families. There are more than 1400 communicants in the congregation and about 2000 persons.

For many years, the language of the congregation was largely German. On Oct. 3, 1909, the Rev. Mr. Marti decided upon a policy of services in both languages. Although the English sermons are largely for the younger generation the pastor has found that a large percentage of the younger generation understand the German language so that they would as soon attend a German service as an English one.

ACTIVE SOCIETIES

Reinhold Kostitzke is president of the vestry of the church at the present time, while Herman Beske is vice president. H. Holterman secretary, H. Junge, financial secretary, Richard Refke, treasurer and Paul Rhode trustee. Frank Ruppert is treasurer of the school board, while Herman Lempe is secretary, and Henry Tschin is the third member of the board.

Social studies in the church always have been active. The women's society has a membership of 140. It gave the new organ to the church. The relief society has a membership of 160 and has done some very able work for the needy. There is a sick benefit and insurance society. Social gatherings

Piles

Can't Be Cured from the Outside

External treatments seldom cure Piles.

Nor do surgical operations.

The cause is and is bad circulation. The blood is stagnant, the veins clogged.

The bowel walls are weak, the parts almost dead.

To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must free the circulation—send a fresh current through stagnant pools. Internal treatment is the one safe method. Ointments and cutting won't do it.

J. S. Leonard, M. D., a specialist, set at work some years ago to find a real internal remedy for piles. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and tried it in 1000 cases before he was satisfied. Now HEM-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere under guarantee. It is a harmless tablet, easy to take, and can always be found at Schmitt Bros. Co. who will gladly refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied customer.

VOLSTEAD LAW IS ALL WRONG, FORUM SPEAKER BELIEVES

Noted Chicago Attorney Argues Against Prohibition Here Sunday Night

W. D. Bartholomew, who will take up the cudgels for liberalization of the Volstead act at the Peoples forum in Lawrence Memorial chapel next Sunday evening, is one of the most prominent lawyers and one of the best platform speakers in Chicago. Mr. Bartholomew is thoroughly convinced that the Volstead law is wrong in principle, that it is impossible of enforcement and that it is extremely unpopular and therefore it should either be made more liberal or abolished altogether, according to information received here. He is a fluent speaker, with a splendid sense of humor and a convincing argument.

Mr. Bartholomew is a past exalted ruler of the Chicago Elks and stands high in fraternal circles. He was counsel for the Chicago Street Railway company in some of its most important litigation and has taken part in other well known Chicago court cases.

The address will be partly a reply to Dr. R. E. Mifflin, Green Bay, who spoke last Sunday night for maintaining the Volstead law. David S. Rose of Milwaukee was to have spoken in reply to Mr. Mifflin but he cannot be here.

The program begins at 7:30 with musical selections. A collection will be taken to defray expenses.

"How Advertising Lessens Sales Resistance" the subject of the address by James W. Fisk, noted merchandising counsel, in Appleton Vocational school next Monday evening, is one of the biggest mysteries in the merchandising business. Mr. Fisk is conducting a business institute in Appleton under auspices of the chamber of commerce and the Appleton Post-Crescent. His meetings on Monday will be the second of the series here.

Mr. Fisk will meet merchants at a luncheon Monday noon in the Conway hotel. The evening meeting will be

ROOM 308 AGAIN WINS H. S. THRIFT TROPHIES

Room 308 of Appleton high school is displaying the thrift cup and the thrift banner this week. This denotes that this room has the best average of deposits and that it had the largest deposits per student on the last banking day. This room is one of the largest in the school and has showed the keenest interest in banking. Through a technicality, the room lost its Thrift banner for several weeks but the banner has been attained once more and the students are determined to keep it.

HECKERT ESTATE, HELD IN TRUST, IS RELEASED TO HEIRS

Judge Bottensek Rules Provisions Set Forth In Will Are Complied With

Acting on a petition for interpretation of the provisions of the will of the late Herman F. Heckert, Sr., Judge Bottensek ruled that this was in trust for some of the heirs may be turned over to the heirs now.

When the will was probated last winter, it was learned that the inheritance of some of the children was to be held in trust as long as they had no issue. The question was raised as to whether the inheritance could be turned over now and the income used. Judge Bottensek ruled that this was in accordance with the provisions of the will, but declared that if any of the sons and daughters die without issue, the inheritance is to be divided equally among those children that have issue.

The late Mr. Heckert left the home-estate to his daughter, Mrs. Louie Bonini certain household effects to his daughter, Mrs. J. G. Pfeil, and $2,000 to be held in trust for Herman F. Heckert, Jr. The following children were to receive an equal part of five equal parts of the remainder of the estate which included $20,000 in excess of the store building on College-avenue, Mrs. J. G. Pfeil, Mrs. Edward Glanz, Sadie Heckert, Emil T. Heckert, and Robert E. Heckert. From Robert Heckert's share $5,000 was to be deducted in consideration of money previously advanced. One hundred dollars was left to each of the grand-children.

422,600 MOTOR CARS IN STATE THIS YEAR

Motor cars in Wisconsin have climbed a new high record. A report to the secretary of state's office shows that there are now 422,603 cars licensed to operate in Wisconsin, which is larger than any total ever recorded by far. This is 62,000 more cars than were licensed in 1922.

Since the motor vehicle law requiring trucks over a certain weight to register has been declared valid by the courts, truck owners have been complying rapidly with provisions of the law, officials in the secretary of state's office say.

No total is available now but it is estimated that virtually all motor vehicles required by the law to re-register have complied. Only trucks above a certain weight were required to re-register. It did not include those of smaller weight which constitute about 80 per cent of the total number licensed to operate in the state.

Relocate Highway 18 Over New Route From Brillion To Appleton

Highway Commission Expects To Route Heavily Traveled Highway Into Appleton Over Lake Road

Relocation of state trunk highway 18 from its present route over highway 15 to lead it over the route on the south side of the Fox river, through Combined Locks, is now out of the question, the county board of supervisors was informed Thursday morning in a letter from M. W. Tolson, secretary of the state highway commission.

That plan of relocation has been made unnecessary by the addition of new state highways announced last week by the highway commission. Resident of Combined Locks asked for a relocation in order to take off excessive traffic from highway 15 between Kaukauna and Appleton.

Although the numbering of the new highways has not yet been worked out by the highway committee, Mr. Tolson informed the board, it is quite probable that the rerouting of highway 18 will cause that trunk highway to enter Appleton on Lake road.

FOLLOW NEW ROUTE
A new highway starting at Brillion and passing through Forest Junction and High Cliff and connecting with state trunk highway 114 has been laid out, and it is reasonably certain that this route will be numbered highway 18. It will provide a more direct route to Appleton and the Waupun and Stevens Point territory than the circuitous route through Combined Locks it was pointed out.

A report of the indigent soldiers commission, signed by Alfred Galpin, president, and F. Heineman, Sr., secretary, was presented at Thursday's meeting of the board, in which it was reported that $430 had been expended last year, leaving a balance of $178. An appropriation of $400 for 1924 was considered sufficient.

George F. Fiedler, chairman of the board, doubted whether the appropriation is sufficient, since additional requests for aid might come from World War veterans, as Mr. Fiedler understood the veterans have a right to do. The report and resolution were referred to the finance committee.

AID FOR CHILDREN
The Rev. F. C. Brayton, superintendent for the northeastern district of the Children's Home-Society of Wisconsin, addressed the board in behalf of his work and asked for an appropriation upwards of $100. Mr. Brayton also talked in cooperation of the board with the society in providing for unmarried mothers.

Petitions for addition to petroled road sections in Kaukauna, Buchanan, Freedom, Maple Creek and for an appropriation of $2,500 for grading and graveling a road in Seymour were referred to the county-state road and bridge committee.

Applications for appointment as auditors were received from Rellly, Pen-

ANOTHER DISTRICT WANTS T. B. CLEANUP

Woodlawn school district, or District No. 4, is the latest school district to go over the top in securing the required number of signatures to petitions for a county-wide cleanup of bovine tuberculosis. Thirty-seven of the 42 farmers signed the petition. Of the remaining five, two have already had their cattle tested for tuberculosis by private veterinarians. O. Mossholder was the committee man in this district and he completed the work in about 24 hours.

per and Benson, Milwaukee, at $500 a year, and from E. A. Dettman, Appleton, at $500 a year, were referred to the finance committee. The resolutions for raising salary of the under-sheriff was referred to the finance committee. An accident claim of $54.60 from H. G. Loebelt was referred to the highway committee and the county attorney. The annual report of Dr. F. P. Dohearty county physician, was submitted and adopted. Dr. C. D. Boyd, physician of the River-view sanatorium, invited the county board to visit the institution, an invitation that the board accepted.

Dr. Boyd considered cooperation with neighboring counties for the maintenance of a tri-county sanatorium inadvisable. County authorities of neighboring counties, he said, were not interested.

THINK of both ends of the gas line when you are tempted to save (?) money at the filling point.

Your tank doesn't care what you put into it. But your motor does care. And it's there at the power end that you pay for indifference to quality at filling time. It's there that free carbon gets in its deadly work on valves and rings. It's there that raw kerosene from poor motor fuel drips down and spoils your lubricating oil.

These — and more — are the certain guide posts that mark the straight road from cheapened filling to premature motor repairs.

Members Of Legion Post Urged To Renew Before Campaign Opens Tuesday

"In memory of the days of '17' is the slogan which has been adopted for the membership campaign of Oney Johnston post of the American Legion opening next Tuesday.

Letters have been issued by the post to every member urging membership renewal before Tuesday and calling on the former service men not only to keep the ties of the legion intact because of the need of continuing the battle for which part of the comrades died, but in order to help the thousands lying in hospitals, or disabled from service.

Renewals and enrolments are being received by the assistant finance officer of the post, August A. Arens, who is at Schlafer Hardware Co. store. The fee this year includes national, state and local dues and subscription to the American Legion Weekly, national organ, and the Badger Legionnaire, state paper.

It is the plan of L. Hugo Keller, post commander, to have 800 members enrolled and present at the big December booster meeting of the legionnaires. Some of the best legion speakers in the midwest will be present, including F. Ryan Duffy, Fond du Lac, Vilas Whaley, Racine, state commander, Dr. J. E. Barrett, Sheboygan, and James H. McGilgan, Green Bay.

ROAD MASTER OBJECTS TO MOONSHINE ALLEY AS NAME FOR HIGHWAY

William Geas, pathmaster on Pigtail alley, has taken exception to the suggestion that the road "right around the corner from Pigtail alley" be called Moonshine alley. He maintains that this neighborhood is law-abiding, in spite of what anybody else says, and it isn't fair to hang a name like "Moonshine alley" on the good people of his district.

He comes to bat with a suggestion of his own. He has noticed that every Sunday night the road in question is lined with parked automobiles, with lights dimmed, and he suggests that if a name must be applied to the road that it be called "Lovers' alley." He proposes that Lovers' alley is much more fitting than Moonshine alley and it won't stir up the ire of the folks who live on it.

CLOSE NAVIGATION ON FOX ON NOV. 30

Navigation on the Fox river will close this year on Friday, Nov. 30, according to a notice received here from Gilbert Van B. Wilkes, district engineer of the Milwaukee office of the war department. The date of closing is considerably later than that of most years. Last year the closing of navigation was delayed by reconstruction work on locks on the lower Fox river. The same order closes navigation on the Wolf river at 12 o'clock midnight of Nov. 30.

CAN'T BEAT U. S. FOR ENGINEERING

So Says Oakland Engineer After Journey To Europe's Automotive Realm

The popular impression that European automotive engineering is superior to American engineering methods is not entirely justified, according to Benjamin Jerome, chief engineer of the Oakland Motor Car Company, Pontiac, Mich., who has just returned from a two months tour during which he visited the leading motor car plants of Great Britain, France, Belgium, Italy and Switzerland, and also the Paris and London auto shows.

"This is particularly true in reference to engineering that would make for production efficiency," explains Mr. Jerome. "In Europe the design of a motor car never seems to have economical production as its objective."

"Each individual tries to make a distinctive automobile, regardless of the cost. The result is that the individual features, in many cases, simply represent the whim of the designer."

"The largest daily production of any motor car company in Europe is about 150 cars, while numerous companies make but one or two cars a day. Hand hammering of parts is more common than the stamping of parts in dies such as are used in this country."

"Where you see workmen in the largest motor car factory in Europe hammering the fender into shape by hand, you realize how far they still have to go to approximate our production methods. When you know that this same company, with a production of 150 cars daily, employs between 6,000 and 7,000 men you realize why the European cars cost so much to produce."

"The majority of European factories resemble our large experimental shops, with a great majority of the parts fashioned by hand. There is also much useless work, such as polishing the crankcase."

"In fact there is no foundation for the belief that European engineering is in advance of our American practice. Practically all of the features exhibited at the Paris and London shows are already found in American cars, including four wheel brakes, which are rapidly being adopted by the prominent makers in this country."

"At the Paris show more than 75 per cent of the cars exhibited had four wheel brakes. I saw about fifteen of the leading makes of cars exhibited at the London Show had this equipment."

"It is interesting to note that Rolls-Royce which has been cited as an outstanding supporter of two wheel brakes, issued a formal announcement at the London Show, stating that on and after November first they 40-60 horsepower chassis would be fitted with brakes on all four wheels."

"The adoption of the four wheel brakes by Rolls-Royce made a profound impression on the English public as well as in the trade and it is only a matter of time before the remainder of the motor car makers fall into line."

DODGE BUSINESS SEDAN IS POPULAR

Beauty Of Lines Incorporated In New Model Is Pleasing To Public

The new grace and beauty of line that has been incorporated in the new model Dodge Brothers business sedan, a model of which made its appearance on the sales floor of the Wolter Imp. & Auto Co., local dealers this week, are trying with the improved riding comfort of the new models in capturing the interest of the public.

STREAMLINE BODY
The streamline body, which was disclosed by the touring models preceding the business sedan, is but a portion of changes that have been made in the closed model. Word was given out some time ago that besides the streamline body, the sedan would be lower. The actual arrival of the model, however, has far surpassed the anticipation of those who attempted to visualize the appearance of the closed cars.

Running boards are inches lower to the ground; the roof of the closed body is lower by a matter of four inches. This coupled with the longer wheelbase and its attendant longer body, made still longer because of certain frame and chassis changes, serves to accentuate the low-swinging appearance throughout. Not only is the car lower by actual measurements but it is much lower to the eye.

RIDES EASIER
This low-swinging arrangement has had much to do with the increased riding comfort as it has lowered the center of gravity of the entire car, thus reducing the side sway to the almost irreducible minimum. The longer rear springs, now 35 inches, have also served to make the riding many times more comfortable.

The steel body, having been employed from the first by the factory in its open models and proved a success for nine years, and which was first utilized in closed car construction by Dodge Brothers last year, gives the occupant a sense of safety and strength that is most evident.

THE "TROUBLE SHOOTER"
TIMELY TIPS FOR WINTER DRIVERS
By E. H. SCOTT

Power and Easy Starting Depend Greatly on Carburetor Adjustment

Take out the Spark Plugs from Nos. 1 and 3 cylinders and examine them. If the porcelain is white, or are a dry, clean reddish brown color, and the engine starts easily, you will be well advised to leave the carburetor adjustment alone, for the condition of the plugs is proof that the mixture is correct. If, on the other hand, the porcelain is covered with a black sooty looking deposit, it is a very good proof that the carburetor is in need of adjustment.

One of the secrets of getting long service from your car and small repair bills, is to know when adjustments are really required. Adjustments should NEVER be made until it is certain that they are necessary, and in connection with an automobile engine there are a few simple preliminary tests that can be made of nearly every part that will quickly prove if adjustment is necessary BEFORE you start altering anything. If, after taking out the Spark Plugs and examining them as shown above, you find they are covered with a black soot and the exhaust gases smell strongly of unburnt gasoline, then you KNOW POSITIVELY that your carburetor REQUIRES adjustment.

It is impossible, however, to adjust a carburetor properly, unless all other parts of the engine are in good condition, so first make sure that the Spark Plugs are clean, and all gaps set correctly; that the Battery is charged and the Contact Breaker points clean and properly adjusted, so that a good snappy spark occurs at the points of all plugs, and see that the valves are in good condition; then you are ready to tune up the Carburetor.

First test the joints between the Carburetor and Intake Manifold, to see that they are all air tight. If air leaks through at these joints, it will be impossible to adjust the carburetor so that the engine will idle slowly and evenly, and will make the engine very difficult to start, especially during the cold weather. Test the joints by squirting some gasoline around them while the engine is running, noticing quite a little difference to the speed of the engine when you do so. If the engine speeds up, it shows that the joint is leaking air.

Before starting to adjust the carburetor, see that the engine is warmed up thoroughly, by letting it run for 15 or 20 minutes.

On carburetors that have a fixed jet, such as the Zenith, the High Speed mixture can only be altered by fitting different sized jets, and this type of carburetor should always be tuned up by an experienced mechanic. On most carburetors, however, the mixture can be regulated by a needle valve or adjusting screw. Some carburetors have two adjustments; one for Low Speeds and one for High Speeds. Others have an adjustment for the Low Speed only, while still other carburetors have one adjustment only, which regulates the mixture for all speeds. If there is a Low Speed adjustment, regulate it first. Fully retard the Spark Lever and set the throttle lever so that the engine runs fairly slowly, then turn the Low Speed adjusting screw in, until you hear a pop back in the Carburetor and the engine shows signs of stopping, then turn it out, until the engine runs evenly and smoothly. Now, fully retard the throttle lever, and the engine should turn over quite slowly and evenly without stopping. If it runs too fast, or stops altogether when the throttle lever is closed, then the throttle arm on the carburetor will have to be adjusted by turning the stop screw on it in or out with a screw driver, until the engine runs at the desired idling speed.

Where there is an adjustment to regulate the mixture for High Speeds, or an adjustment which regulates the mixture at all speeds, place the Spark Lever about two-thirds of the way up on the steering wheel, then test the carburetor by opening the throttle quickly, and as far as possible, for JUST A SECOND. The engine should respond instantly, without a moment's hesitation. If it pops back in the carburetor, the mixture is too weak, and the adjusting screw should be turned out a fraction of a turn, to make the mixture a little richer. If, however, the engine speeds up, the mixture MAY be TOO RICH. To see whether this is so or not, turn in the gasoline adjusting screw a fraction of a turn at a time, and test again by opening the throttle quickly. Continue to turn in the adjusting screw, until the engine commences to pop back in the carburetor when the throttle is opened quickly, showing that the mixture is now a shade too weak, then turn the screw out to make the mixture a little richer, until you find a point where you can quickly open the throttle and there is no pop back in the carburetor, yet the engine accelerates instantly. Finally, give the engine a road test, to see that your position and pickup is all right. The above adjustment will give you the greatest mileage on gasoline, but may cause the engine to pop back for a few minutes, when the engine is cold. This can be overcome, however, by the careful use of the choke, operated from the dash-board. As soon as the engine is warm, however, the choke must be pushed right in.

LOCKHEAD 4-WHEEL BRAKE ON 13 CARS

Manufacturers of 13 different motor cars have adopted Lockhead hydraulic four wheel brakes as equipment for their cars. D. O. Scott, general manager of the Hydraulic Brake Company, of Detroit, stated yesterday. The majority of these manufacturers will probably announce the brakes as part of their cars between now and the opening of the New York automobile show, which starts January 5.

The brakes are of the same type as those already announced by the Chalmers Motor Car Company, the first concern with large distribution to use them, and which announced them several weeks ago.

Among the 13 manufacturers are those producing four, six and eight cylinder cars in practically every price and quality field, it was said.

"Every manufacturer who has given Lockhead hydraulic brakes the complete tests that we recommend has ordered their adoption for his cars," Mr. Scott said. "The manufacturers who have to date adopted them will, in 1924, have a combined estimated output of considerably more than 250,000 cars."

"It is reasonable to assume from the representative list of motor car makers who have already adopted Lockhead hydraulic brakes that it is merely a matter of a short time before their use will be very general."

COLOR IS USED ON NEW OAKLAND CARS

Latest Models Are Artistically Finished In Pleasing Designs

How the new 1924 line of Oakland Motor received the name "true blue" is a question asked everywhere by the public.

The answer is interesting. In order to enhance the artistic appearance and individuality of the Oakland cars produced by the pleasing body lines and top construction, it was decided to finish all the bodies in color. As a result the Oakland is the only car in its price class today that is furnishing standard bodies in other than black making the cars distinctive and different from all other cars in the same class.

DESCRIBES PRODUCT
The second reason was that the phrase "true blue" most adequately described the line. The phrase appears to have originated in the seventeenth century and to have been used later in the writings of Robert Burns and Sir Walter Scott. The signifi- cance of "true blue" is faithful, staunch, real, unwavering, genuine, sterling; also it has stood for loyalty, fidelity and a spotless reputation.

Thus for nearly three centuries the expression "true blue" has signified that which has been tried and found to be absolutely reliable, steadfast and honest. The Oakland Motor Car Company had been designing and testing this new model for a period of approximately three years before it was placed in production, and believes that the new line has been so thoroughly and completely planned and tested and completely planned and tested as to merit the title "true blue."

The standard Oakland cars are finished in Holland blue, striped with red on the heading around the body and a circle of red around the hub caps. Only the fenders on the open bodies and the fenders and upper parts of the closed bodies are finished in black.

The sport models are painted a special Oakland light blue, with an orange stripe on the heading around the body and the louvers of the hood. The wheels are painted to match the body and are striped in orange. The color scheme on these models is further carried out by the upholstery, which is of Spanish leather with a finish specially designed for these sport models.

BUICK DEALERS STAY WITH BUICK

Buick's nation-wide dealer and service organization is a frequent subject of comment in the motor field. And there is one thought that always arises in the mind of anyone who considers this widespread organization for a moment.

There must be some fundamental reasons why the Buick selling organization is composed of so many men who have been Buick dealers for years.

Why is it that these men are satisfied with the Buick contract year after year, and why are so many other dealers anxious to make a contract to sell Buick cars?

FAIR DEALING ALWAYS
It is because Buick for more than twenty years has fulfilled to the limit its obligations for fair dealing with the motoring public and with the dealer. Buick fair dealing applies to every phase of the motor industry. It means the manufacture of a car that will give one hundred per cent service to its owner and it means a constant effort to serve the owner—through Buick Authorized Service through painstaking research in order that still better cars may be built, and in many other ways.

The public as well as the dealer has been quick to recognize this policy and the consistency with which Buick has held its leading place in the motor car field year after year has given Buick most enviable prestige.

PRESTIGE OF VALUE
Now Buick prestige and reputation is of immense value to the dealer. It means that there is a demand for a large proportion of sales that will be made independently of his efforts. Buick has so thoroughly proved its dependability and its value that in every community in the country the Buick sells with the smallest amount of sales effort.

In fact, every Buick dealer is sure of a certain percentage of sales without any preceding sales effort or expense. There will be some of his customers who will buy Buicks without the slightest solicitation from him. Conditions such as this naturally lower the dealer's operating expense and increase his profits. That is one reason why Buick dealers renew their selling contracts year after year.

The Buick dealer and the motoring public know that Buick prestige is based on a firm foundation. They recognize the fact that during a period of twenty years Buick has developed a manufacturing plant that is second to none in size and efficiency. They know that it is a manufacturing plant that has developed on the principle of progressive manufacture, with the thought constantly in mind of reducing overhead to a minimum. They know, too, that during this time there has been developed a manufacturing organization consisting of superintendents, foremen and workmen, a large number of whom have spent years in building Buick Valve-in-Head motor cars correctly and efficiently.

NASH SPRING PLAN ONE GREAT CUSHION

Physical Ease And Mental Relaxation Come With Ride In Newer Models

Among many features of unusual value that engage your interest as you inspect Nash cars, is the new type Nash spring construction. Spring construction, above and beyond what it means to you in physical mental relaxation, is important, because of its relation to the endurance of the car. Mediocre spring construction shortens car life. Imparts performance, and materially reduces resale value because it does not fully protect the car from bumps and jars. The whole Nash spring structure serves, in effect, as a great cushion between you and the irregularities of the road.

And what it does for you it also does for the car in softening the punishment of mile after mile of travel.

This construction helps remarkably in eliminating sideways and in lessening the twisting that the car frame ordinarily suffers.

And you observe a delightful buoyancy at all speeds that is duplicated only by far larger and heavier cars with much longer wheelbase. As though it were not enough so greatly to enhance your comfort and lengthen the car life, these springs reveal a further genuine helpfulness in economy effected in use of oil, gas and tires. They assist in conserving the tires because they make the car hold the road more closely, and because they do away with the weaving motion common to cars less well balanced and lacking this spring construction. By the same token, because there is no fruitless wheel-spinning, you get greater mileage from each gallon of gas and quart of oil.

Here again, both in design and the construction of the frame does Nash engineering surpass common standards. You will note that the front spring eyes are so engineered as to oscillate on the extended ends of the tubular cross member.

The reason for this is that it enables the frame to be swung far lower than is possible with any other type of design. So the Nash Four has a lower center of gravity without the slightest reduction in road clearance.

The frame itself is built with bridge-like rigidity of heavy channel steel a full six inches deep. These massive side members are anchored firmly together by five rugged cross members. The front cross member is of the tubular type which affords a pronounced resistance to lateral strains and twisting stresses.

This tubular bar joins the frame front ends and locks them into rigid solidity. Then there are four big additional channel cross members that stiffen the entire frame. Now you see why Nash frames are free from weaving. And as a consequence body squeaks and rattles do not spring up.

When the car is in full motion its solidity and stability are ever more apparent. It hangs closely to the road and the rear wheels track the front wheels perfectly even on high-crowned roads.

MOON CAR SALES CLIMB 75 PER CENT

Neil E. McDarby, Assistant Sales Manager of the Moon Motor Car Company, St. Louis, just returned from a trip to New York where he represented the Moon Company in the drawings for space and position at the annual automobile shows to be held in New York and Chicago in January.

Drawings for exhibit space and choice of location at these shows are based on gross sales of the exhibiting automobile manufacturers. Moon has advanced nine places, or positions, since the previous annual show held last January, McDarby reported.

Its advance in position in the industry is the result of the large increase in sales of Moon cars this year. Its sales being nearly 75 per cent ahead of sales for the same period last year.

Production of Moon Cars this year will total about 15,000; plans are now being made to increase production to 25,000 cars in 1924.

USE FORD TRUCKS TO RELIEVE JAPS

Ford trucks will play an important part in the reconstruction of the devastated sections of Japan and in furnishing transportation for the thousands of inhabitants in the affected regions.

This is indicated by orders coming into the Ford Motor Co.

The first of these was from the city of Tokyo and called for 1,000 Ford one-ton truck chassis.

The entire transportation system of Japan's capital city was destroyed by the earthquake and fire which followed, leaving the city helpless. It is now toward quick recovery the municipality ordered 1,000 Ford trucks and within a short time will have a great fleet of motor busses in operation.

The Tokio order, placed with Sale & Fraser, Ltd., Ford distributors for Japan, was received October 10th.

CHALMERS USING FOUR WHEEL BRAKE

Seventeen Years' Experiment Behind Lockhead Equipment On Cars

A story of 17 years of experiment, invention and design is behind the announcement of the adoption of Lockhead Hydraulic four wheel brakes by the Chalmers Motor Car company, one of the oldest concerns in the industry.

Matcom Loughhead, chief engineer of the Hydraulic Brake company, and inventor of Lockhead hydraulic brakes, then scarcely out of his teens, conceived their basic idea while running a test plant for the White Automobile company in San Francisco in 1906. Most of the years of 1903 and 1904 he had spent in building one of those ancient one cylinder cars common to those days of primitive motoring.

Like nearly every other potential automobile magnate of those halcyon days, Loughhead (his name is pronounced exactly like the brakes' trade name) had a head full of plans but no facilities to develop them. Accordingly, his experimental work proceeded at a snail's pace. By 1912, however, he had made complete working sketches, which he still possesses of the fundamental design of hydraulic four wheel brakes. Four years later he had built a test set and equipped an aged car of extremely doubtful prowess with it. This automobile he drove 20,000 miles over mountainous country with practically no trouble with the brakes. Scarcely as much could be said for the car.

Shipments, made from New York, began at once and the final consignment went out October 21.

Monthly truck orders from Japan, running usually between 400 and 500, continue to come in, further indicating the demand for the Ford truck.

The Ford assembly plant, parts stock and show rooms at Yokohama were completely destroyed by earthquake and headquarters in Tokio was damaged to a considerable extent.

BUILD CLOSED CARS ALMOST ENTIRELY

November Production Of Paige And Jewett Will Be 90 Per Cent Thus

Production of Paige 6-70's and Jewett Sixes by the Paige-Detroit Motor Car Company will be 90 per cent closed cars during the month of November, according to the schedule now in force. Herrmann Motor Co., local dealers have been informed.

This is perhaps the largest percentage of closed cars that any manufacturer has scheduled for building during any month in the past year. Paige and Jewett production for October was 80 per cent closed cars. Mr. Herrmann states. The Jewett brougham, more than any other single model was responsible for the increased proportion of closed cars scheduled this month, stated Mr. H. M. Jewett, president of the company. He cited two specific reasons for the popularity of Jewett broughams, as seen by the factory through its "eyes"—the dealers.

The first was the low price for a quality six cylinder motor-car—approximately only $1000 more than a touring car of the line.

Second, the permanent finish as well as permanent top.

"We find the public already acquainted with the lasting qualities of a baked-on enamel finish," states Mr. Jewett. "The business man, farmer or family living in the congested city need not worry because they are forced to leave the brougham standing out doors in any old kind of weather. It's finish will not be affected."

Paige seven-passenger sedan shortage during the last several months was largely responsible for the large proportion of 6-70 closed models scheduled for November. Mr. Jewett explained to the local Paige and Jewett dealers.

SHARP INCREASE IN CADILLAC SALES

New Cadillac V-63 Shows 44.8 Per Cent Increase In Sales Over Preceding Year

Final reports for the first six weeks after the announcement of the new Cadillac V-63 show an increase in sales of 44.8 per cent over the corresponding period in the sale of the preceding type. Production for the same period is also running 42 per cent higher than with the V-61, according to Lynn McNaughton, Cadillac Vice-president and general sales manager.

"The comparison is an especially clear index of increased demand," states Mr. McNaughton, "because the type 61 was announced at exactly the same season of the year as the V-63, with the same seasonal trend in effect. It indicates that the fundamental improvements in the latest type have won the full approval of former Cadillac owners and of prospects who have more recently arrived in the class of Cadillac purchasers."

"From the outset of the V-63 season orders have been coming in faster than they could be filled, and there has been a particular shortage of the models most desired by foreign buyers."

"It is the performance of the new cars which has especially impressed buyers and prospects, and with the new owners who have taken long trips, or have driven away their own cars from the factory, the great smoothness and dependability in operation are commented upon even more than the engineering developments that make the performance possible."

"At this time of the year when sales of closed cars are highest, our new bodies with their many improvements and features which formerly were obtainable only in custom jobs, have been factors in raising our sales to these high levels."

FAVORITE SON CAMPAIGNS HIT HIRAM JOHNSON

Senator Watson Announces Candidacy To Prevent Californian's Victory

tain from the winning administration such favor as is ordinarily bestowed on political supporters who at the psychological moment furnish the sinews of victory.

But there may be a vice presidential nomination concealed in many of the "favorite son" booms. Indiana for instance, is a popular place for the Republican party to go when it comes to selecting vice presidential nominees. Indiana is a pivotal state and a man who can carry Indiana is a strong point for any presidential ticket.

The Republican party by the hand of fate has no vice-president to renominate. The field is open. There was a time when the vice presidency was scorned but the prominent part given Mr. Coolidge in cabinet councils by the late President Harding has made the job a much more interesting one even though not any more spectacular. At least the vice-president knows what's going on at the cabinet table and has much more food for thought than is given by the interminable debates in the United States senate over which he presides.

The natural inclination of the politicians is to go to the middle west or even far west for a vice-presidential nominee. Since Mr. Coolidge is from the east, his friends are eager to have as a running mate with him someone who can help win the west. Mr. Coolidge, moreover, is of the conservative type. Someone with a little more appeal to the radical sentiment of the west would please the Coolidge managers very much.

Playing the game from the Coolidge side, it is natural that his political managers should say to certain "favorite sons" at this time: "Go ahead and capture the delegation from your state and hold it for Coolidge. On the showing you make before the country may depend your chances for the vice presidency."

So it may come about that the favorite son campaign will tend on the one hand to give Hiram Johnson a battle in many states that he is counting on and will at the same time develop the vice-presidential possibilities for the Republican ticket. Jim Watson's announcement is not taken here to mean that he is unfriendly to the Coolidge boom but that he is maneuvering into a position in which he can help the president win the election.

WORD QUESTION FOR H. S. LEAGUE DEBATE

Chicago Sanitary District's "Water Steal" Subject For Discussion

"Resolved: That the drainage project of the Chicago sanitary district in so far as it involves the diversion from Lake Michigan of such quantity of water as may be necessary to provide adequate sanitation for the city of Chicago should be permanently granted," was the debate question which representatives of the Fox River Valley Debate league selected Thursday afternoon. The six schools in the league were represented at a meeting in the Y. M. C. A. here. The constitutionality of the project was conceded and the treaty rights were waived to avoid any quibbling over them in debate.

A resolution establishing the fact that forensic work should be subsidized in some way by all schools and that the regulation letter of the school should be awarded for forensic activities was adopted by the coaches. The resolution provided that it be mailed to all the principals of the schools in the league.

The question which the league representatives have selected is the one which the University of Wisconsin teams will debate this season. K. A. Windesheim, debate coach of Appleton high school is chairman of the league. Others at the meeting on Thursday were Miss Marie Renan, East Green Bay; J. B. Burke, Manitowish; Reuben Brown, Fond du Lac; L. A. Woehler, Sheboygan; L. C. Feldman, Oshkosh.

AVERTS COLLISION BUT CAR TIPS OVER

Basil LaMarche Saves Himself From Injury In Crash By Changing Seats

A Ford sedan owned by F. J. LaMarche of New London, and driven and occupied by his son Basil, was demolished in an accident Thursday afternoon at the intersection of Pearl-st. and Wolf River-ave. New London. The youth slipped from beneath the steering wheel to the rear seat when he saw the crash coming and was unhurt.

LaMarche was driving north on Pearl-st. which is an arterial highway. An automobile driven by Fred Poppe of New London, appeared suddenly from Wolf River-ave and LaMarche swung sharply to the right in order to avert the collision. His machine struck the arterial highway signpost and turned completely over in front of Grand hotel.

Mr. Poppe was able to stop his car and did not figure in the smashup.

Fred Goetz, cashier of the Citizens bank of Cadott, visited Mr. and Mrs. Albert Voeks, 544 Pacific-st., Friday. Mr. Goetz is a brother of Mrs. Voeks.

SECRET OF HIS SUCCESS

One of the most noted, successful and richest men of this country in a recent article said, "Whatever I am and whatever success I have attained in this world I owe it all to my wife. From the day I first knew her she has been an inspiration and the greatest helpmate of my life." Health is the first essential of every woman who wants to be a successful wife and to hold the love and admiration of her husband. If a woman finds her energies flagging and dark circles appearing under her eyes, she has backache, headaches, nervousness and "the blues," she should take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, the medicine which holds the record of helping 98 out of every 100 women who try it. There is nothing better.

Thanksgiving Day—

set aside by our forefathers as a time for devotion and thanksgiving—often loses its significance in this day of hurry and bustle. To the rank and file of us it has come to mean merely a coveted holiday.

It is a human fallacy to forget the spirit of an occasion while remembering the letter of it. Yet we have so much more to be truly thankful for than our courageous ancestors.

An hour might be worse spent than in thinking over our advantages and opportunities. Thinking about them makes us appreciate them more, and appreciating them more induces us to make the best use of them.

I SPIED TODAY

NOW, IT IS APPLES

Wednesday evening while coming home from school I noticed a bunch of boys standing in the road on Appleton street. Going over I saw them open a caddy sack. It contained apples. Each one grabbed a few and ran. They must have fallen off a truck because a man came back after them, but by the time he got back they were nearly all gone.

ALL IN THE CLIMB

At the rear of one of the homes on East College-ave. on Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 a little boy of four said to his little pal, "I can climb that old apple tree."

He attempted it and succeeded in getting a good start up, but trouble began when he started to descend. He slipped and his leg got tightly caught in the crotch of the old tree. Two ladies tried to help him but failed to accomplish anything. A delivery man came along and had presence of mind enough to take a plank and pry the limbs of the tree.

After putting the little fellow down, the man asked, "Well, Sonny are you all right?" He kicked his leg and answered, "Yep, nothing broke away."

I at once bought a bottle for father and he is now as strong as a bear and can eat more ham and cabbage than any 5 men." OLD DOBBIE GOT MAD

You can hardly blame this horse for seeking revenge upon the automobile. A horse belonging to John Kern, Grand Chute farmer, resented the taunting automobile sign in its pasture and gave vent to its displeasure by kicking the sign to pieces one day this week. The sign advertised an Appleton garage. The next day men came from the garage to repair the sign.

PROBABLY "UNDER ORDERS"

In west towns if a man appeared in the business district in a bathrobe, the people would call the police, but in Appleton the only reaction one gets is to think "Just another college student." That was exactly what happened to me when I saw a young fellow in a bathrobe walking toward the post office Wednesday noon.

ON THE SCREEN

"THE WANTERS" PROVES STRONG SCREEN DRAMA

The simple, human story is again proving itself the screen superior of the stage, tumbling plot with a maze of complications.

This time it is John M. Stahl's production of "The Wanters" that brings this fact forcibly home.

Presented by Louis B. Mayer through First National, "The Wanters" began an engagement at the Elks Theatre yesterday and it was a warmly sympathetic audience that sat through the showing.

With a great idea embodied in the theme and wonderfully human treatment in its development, the production stands out and above the average film of today.

There is something "different" about this picture, and credit for the refreshing newness and dramatic strength of the situations is largely due to the genius of Mr. Stahl, the director.

Without becoming a preachment the theme presents a strong lesson, related through the experiences of a girl of humble state who accepts a position as maid in a millionaire's home in order to be near the beautiful things she has always craved.

A new world opens for her when the good-looking young man of the family, a modern knight-errant in her estimation, falls in love with her and proposes marriage. But the narrow prejudices and selfish jealousies of the chronic "wanters" of the story take an active part in her romance and nearly succeed in ruining it before they are suddenly awakened to their cruel injustice of their treatment of the girl.

THE STORY OF A COWARD WHO WAS SCARED INTO BEING A HERO

A the New Bijou theatre today and Saturday, where the new Goldwyn picture, "His Back Against the Wall," is being shown, many of the best character players of the screen may be seen in support of Raymond Hatton, who has the leading role in a new kind of western picture. He plays the part of a coward who has to prove himself a hero. In the end, his love for a girl makes a hero of him. In the meantime, he undergoes all the pangs of fear known to man or beast. Yet Mr. Hatton's interpretation of the character, while sincere to the fables of the hero, presents him to the audience in a humorous light.

The fun in "His Back Against the Wall" begins in the first reel and continues to the end of the last. In his presentation of the hero who is a coward at heart, Raymond Hatton has the excellent support of a cast of players who have earned lasting reputations on the screen. Among the many artists who appear in the new Goldwyn picture are Virginia Valli, Virginia Madison, Will Walling, Gordon Russell, W. H. Bainbridge, Fred Kohler, Jack Curtis, Shannon Day, and Louis Morrison.

The picture was directed by Rowland V. Lee and the admirable settings were designed by Cedric Gibbons.

"SPEED"

"Nerve" episode two of "Speed," the new Patheserial starring Charles Hutchinson, will be shown at the New Bijou Theatre Saturday matinee only as an extra added feature to the regular show.

In the current chapter Hutchinson continues to supply thrills in his escapes from the detectives hired by his unscrupulous cousin. Seeking to clear his name, he determines to sail for South America to find Jim Sprague, and many exciting events take place abroad the ship at sea. A hair-raising climax is provided when Charles Hutchinson leaps overboard and battles in the water with a man-eating shark.

Reads to Students

Hortense Nielsen, the famous impersonator, will read Drinkwater's "Abraham Lincoln" for Appleton high school students on Dec. 11. The reading will take place in the assembly room of the school in the afternoon.

That's the other name for Nestor Johnson's

There's about as much difference between skating on Nestor Johnson's and other skates as there is between riding in an airplane or on a bicycle. You just cut the air. You swoop and glide without the least effort—soar along, and leave 'em all behind. Why? Because Nestor Johnson's are the skates of champions. Their tubular-braced runners are as true as a die. Their bell-like heel and sole plates and their specially made shoes give your feet the kind of support that makes you sure of yourself. What's the use of taking a "just as good" when you can get Nestor Johnson's? Look for them at your dealer's.

Buck May Use Frosh To Replace Missing Vets In Final Grid Contest

Coach Smith's Yearlings Show Up Well In Scrimmage Against Regs And May Be Given Chance At Carroll

After their decisive victory from Hamline at St. Paul last Friday, Lawrence gridmen looked forward to another victory in their final contest with Carroll at Wausau Saturday. Then came the announcement that the entire backfield probably would be unable to take part in that game, and Coach "Cub" Buck began to put his second string through its paces in an endeavor to develop substitutes for Grismen, Boettcher, Kinney, Zuseman and LaRoux. The week's drill has failed to show up layers capable of even approximating the showing of these stars, and it is possible that freshmen may be used against Carroll. Briese, Nason, Davis and Dunn have been mentioned as possibilities for backfield positions at Wausau. They have been making a brilliant showing in scrimmaging the regulars, and the entire freshman squad looks truly as good as, if not better than the second string.

The Carroll contest is not a conference game, so the rule forbidding the use of first year men does not apply in this case. The use of the yearlings appears to be a logical step, and although nothing has been said to confirm it, it is probable that some of Coach Bill Smith's fighting fresh will get a chance to show their stuff in the final battle.

LAWRENCE PICKS SOPH CAGE STARS

Second Year Lineup Includes Kotal, Zussman, Boettcher, Brooks, Delforge

Basketball practice at Lawrence is progressing according to schedule, and a wealth of material has been revealed by the work done hitherto. In Wednesday night's practice, sixteen sophomores were chosen to represent that class in the class tourney scheduled for next week and Thursday evening. The Juniors turned out to show their paces. Choice of their champions was to be made during the course of the day but had not yet been announced Friday noon.

The sophomores who placed are Reed, Galesburg; Feldhausen, West Green Bay; Meyer, Sauk City; Ellis, Tomahawk; Kamnitz, West Green Bay; Flatland, Colfax; Brooks, Colfax; Boshra, Wausau; Landon, Wausau; Morrison, Columbus; Ingerie, Hyde Park, Ill.; Goult, Plainfield; Kotal, Chicago Heights; Zussman, Appleton; Boettcher, Watertown; and Delforge, West Green Bay.

Many of these men, including Kotal, Zussman, Brooks, Delforge and Boettcher are out for football, and therefore unable to devote much time to the cage game. However, they will be of the grid after the Carroll game Saturday and thereafter will turn out for daily practice with their mates.

KNOX WILL MEET BELOIT ON GRIDIRON NEXT YEAR

Hefty Hopes Of Harvard

Facing what appears to be inevitable defeat, Harvard will enter the Yale game Saturday, last of the season's Big Three struggles with at least a resolute will. Harvard won from Princeton, but not in the convincing manner that marked the Blue's win over the Tiger. Harvard hopes for great things from the athletes pictured above, Greenough, Eastman, Hubbard and Dunker.

HEALTH HINTS

Do not allow your conceit to be come flabby or run down. Listening to yourself on the radio will help.

Virile, upstanding ears are unfailing marks of perfect health. Practice ear wiggling to music, using the selection, "I Hear You Calling Me."

Don't neglect your wind. A croup is nothing but a toy balloon that has watched its health.

No self-respecting man will be without well muscled eyebrows. Engage in short, spirited eyebrow tilting exercises before breakfast.

Get nervous if you can. Some day you may be good enough to pass as a shummy dancer.

Watch your hips. The well-kipped man is in great demand these days.

Corns are troublesome rather than dangerous, and that's something old.

Cincinnati engages Luque's Cuba rival.

Cincinnati—Pedro Dibut, ranked with Adolpho Luque as Cuba's greatest pitcher, has been obtained for the Cincinnati Nationals, according to a special dispatch to the Cincinnati Times Star from Havana, Cuba.

Pepé Conte representing the Cincinnati club, came to terms with Dibut on Thursday the dispatch stated.

Dibut is a sturdy right hander, a little larger than Luque, Cincinnati's star pitcher last season, and is the sensation of Cuba's winter league.

Football machines are primarily of two types, defensive and offensive," says Coach Rockne. "I lean to the offensive teams who have a scoring punch, although I do not neglect the defense. Rather I work on the theory that attack is the strongest defense."

Getting the jump on the opposition comes Rockne, is the big advantage in every football battle. He figures that this split-second edge is obtained by having agile linemen who can think and execute as quickly.

The system of the Notre Dame forwards is to always try to hit the other man first and thereby keep him on the defensive. That is why Rockne's linemen are often much lighter than generally selected by other coaches. He feels that agility in hitting first, far outweighs the advantage of poundage, which is often wasted by sluggish movement.

By hitting first and keeping the opposition on the defensive, the forwards make it possible for fast moving backs to find and penetrate holes that are open but momentarily. Hitting fast and low, the Notre Dame forwards have been so taught and trained that they are able to meet their heavier opponents more than half way and consequently by the momentum gained by starting first they are at least temporarily able to open the required holes.

"It isn't the man with the ball who is responsible for most of the gains, it is the men who are assisting him," says Rockne. "The player carrying the ball must be protected by interference that is properly timed."

"Get your man," is a Rockne axiom. To Rockne there is no more heinous offense in the list of football sins than missing the man you are supposed to get in order to make possible the execution of a certain play. Notre Dame backs excel in interfering for the man with the ball. That explains the many long runs made by various members of the Irish backfield.

Rockne is strong for surprise plays. Notre Dame always has a bag full of them. He wants the football world to know he has them, for then they act as a threat that makes possible straight football, which is equally surprising to a team that is constantly looking for trick stuff. Princeton was treated to such a brand, after the Army, a week previous, had been mystified by the variety of Notre Dame's offense.

Speed, surprise and elusiveness comprise the triple threat of Notre Dame's attack.

Wilson Starts Class Tourney To Pick Men For Basketball Team

Appleton High School Has But Two Lettermen From Last Year On Which To Build Up Cage Quint

Coach David Wilson faces the task of building up a basketball team at Appleton high school with but two of last year's lettermen as a basis, and has started an interclass tournament to see what new material there is, and to choose the best for his first string. More than 50 men turned out to practice for the class tourneys, and some of them give promise of developing into stars with more practice.

The regular team which will represent the school after the season starts will not be chosen until after Thanksgiving day. The Appleton season opens Jan. 4 with a contest at Sheboygan, leaving Wilson more than a month in which to drill his new men.

In preparation for the expected heavy drill, new backboards have been put up in the high school gymnasium, and all preparations for a hard winter's work are completed.

As the first step in estimating which of the candidates who are turning out will be best fitted to represent the school, Wilson is daily choosing teams without regard to their class, and putting them against each other in practice contests. There are numbers of youngsters who have turned out for several years, but were unable to make the first team. These are making an excellent showing this year, and will be considerable help in teaching the new men.

LEGION SETS TEETH FOR LAPHAM BATTLE

Kaukauna Amateurs Work Hard To Be In Shape For Sunday's Struggle

Kaukauna—Members of the American legion football team are bearing down hard on the gridstone this week. The boys are put through strenuous workout every practice night in preparation for the biggest game of two seasons when the Laphams of Milwaukee play here Sunday afternoon. It is admitted that the Milwaukee professionals will have the edge on the amateur champions and they ought to win the game but they won't catch Coach Ashe's men sleeping. The legionnaires have a reputation for their ability to fight hard in pinches and if defeated will at least hold the score down to a scant limit.

Attempts have been made for more than two seasons to sign up the Laphams but the big fellows always demanded what looked like a small fortune to the Kaukauna management. As it is they will get more than they have ever been taken in at the game in a single game. General admission price has been raised to one dollar and if the attraction draws a little larger than usual, the management will have little difficulty in meeting expenses. The racas is scheduled to start at 2:15.

The contest team has been installed a slight favorite. It is made up largely of veterans from the 1922 eleven which defeated the Middies, whereas several new names are to be found in the eleven which will represent Annapolis.

Neither team comes to the game with a perfect record. The Army has fallen before Notre Dame and Yale, and the Middies have bowed to Penn State and have been tied by Princeton. But each, in the course of season has disclosed itself as a powerful combination.

ARMY IS DOPED TO BEAT NAVY ON GRID

Saturday Meeting Will Decide Supremacy Of Mule And Goat

New York—The Army mule and the navy goat resume belligerent relations Saturday afternoon.

At the Polo grounds, flanked by the Middle brigade on the one hand and the Cadet regiment on the other, the football experts of Uncle Sam's service clash in their twenty-sixth engagement and as each institution has won twelve and tied one of the games to date their battle Saturday will determine the leadership.

Hides Broken Rib To Remain On Grid Squad

Hoboken, N. J.—Fear that he would be removed from the lineup in two potential football contests, kept Harold O'Callaghan, regular fullback of the Stevens Institute team from going to surgeons until Friday because of a broken rib in his chest.

The surgeons found that the pain, which he endured since his team's contest with the warriors of the U. S. S. Colorado, was a broken rib with the defect he played with unusual agility in his team's contests with the Massachusetts Aggies and Swarthmore.

YALE HAS EDGE ON HARVARD GRIDDERS

New York—The Yale bulldog leads at the throat of John Harvard Saturday afternoon. The bulldog, symbol of Yale, fretfully awaits the impending tussle. The welts from fast whippings at the hands of Cambridge John, still plainly mark its hide. The ignominy of nine Yale defeats in the past 13 battles between this pair, rankle in its canine heart. Thorough and lasting vengeance is the bulldog's aim and expectation.

Upwards of 50,000 persons who will fill the Harvard stadium and its temporary stands to capacity, will witness Saturday's combat.

Yale rules a decided favorite but memory of the happenings of the recent past when other Yale teams, predated as certain winners, have trailed supposedly inferior Crimson combinations, make a Yale triumph anything but sure.

15 COUNTIES VOTE TO KEEP NURSES

By Associated Press
Madison—Action of twenty counties on retaining county nurses, made optional by the 1922 legislature, is shown in a summary compiled by the state board of health on Thursday.

Fifteen counties voted to retain the nurses. They are: Dane, La Crosse, Trempealeau, Ashland, Bayfield, Crawford, Kenosha, Taylor, Vernon, Jackson, Manitowish, Pepin, Walworth, Wood and Vilas.

The five counties electing not to employ nurses are: Barron, Calumet, Pierce, Richland, and Green Lake. Others will report during the coming week.

Several counties increased the appropriation for this work and Manitowish and Walworth added a sum for tuberculosis. Charles La Crosse county included $200 for corrective work for children unable to pay for treatment.

VOTE TO FINISH 57
By Associated Press
Kenosha—The lack way to Chicago—highway 57—will soon be paved its entire length from Milwaukee to Chicago. The two unpaved portions both lie in Kenosha county and the county board here has voted to pave them in 1924 as the paving program. There are two strips, one of two and three-fourths miles, and both will be paved as federal aid projects at a total cost of more than $125,000.

When the work in Kenosha county is completed the highway will be paved all the way from Milwaukee to Chicago.

RICHER MILK FURNISHES MORE VITAMINES

Attention has already been called to the fact that the richer milk is the more desirable because it furnishes more energy and that a 5 per cent milk at 12 cents per quart is an even better buy than is a 3.8 per cent milk at 10 cents. There is another angle of the milk question which is important and that is the matter of vitamins.

The fat of the milk is well known to us in the form of butter, the casein and albumen is familiar in the form of cottage cheese and milk sugar is an article of commerce. The vitamins however, are an extremely important part of the food value of the milk with which we are by no means so familiar. In fact there is still some uncertainty as to the number of these substances which are actually present in milk. It is known that the fat soluble Vitamin A is readily dissolved in the fat and that water soluble Vitamin B is closely connected with the casein and that the presence of these two vitamins in the diet are necessary to the growth of children and the well being of adults.

It is known that the food of the cow has considerable influence upon the abundance of these vitamins in the milk and it has even been shown that the amount of these substances in the milk could be increased by feeding the cow vitamin rich food such as cod liver oil. However, the cow obtains her normal supply of these substances from the green plants, and other things being equal, the abundance of them in her milk appears to be fairly proportional to the amounts of fat and other solids present.

From this it is seen that the richer milk is not only more desirable because of the increased amount of energy which it furnishes but it is also a better source of the vitamins which are so closely connected with the growth and vigor of all of us.

freshness

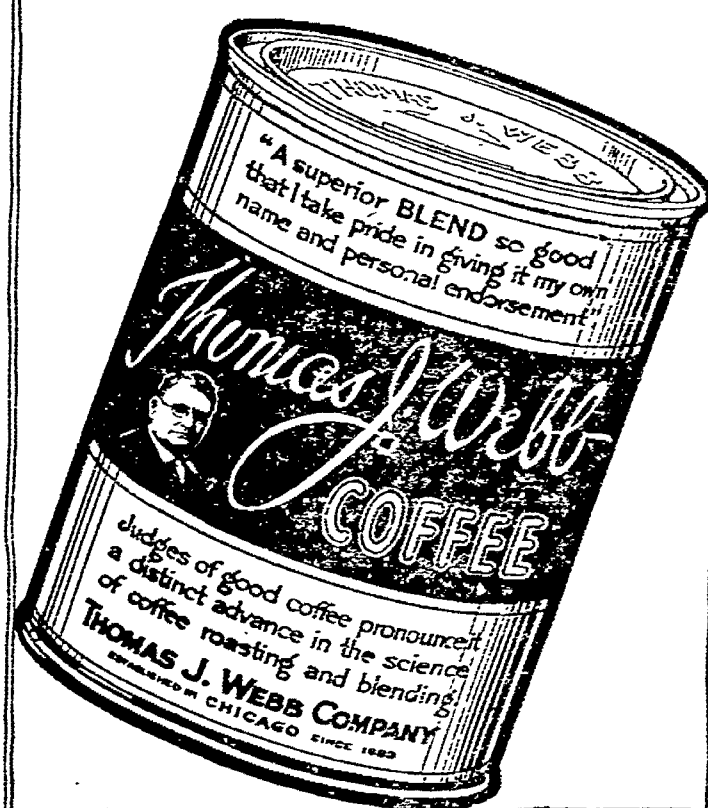

packed in air-tight Tin Containers

To keep it fresh for you

THE moment you open a tin of Thomas J. Webb Coffee, you can sense its delicious freshness. Direct from the "live flame" roaster to you, no moisture has reached it. No hand has touched it. Not a bit of air has seeped through its container to rob you of its precious freshness.

You don't have to transfer this coffee into an air-tight jar for fresh keeping. Its original tin container with its friction top cover affords complete protection. Protects the coffee on its way to you—protects it while you use it. That's why you can use it little by little and find the very last particle in the tin just as fresh and fragrant and flavor-filled as the first.

Because of this protected freshness, a pound of Thomas J. Webb Coffee goes further than a pound of ordinary coffee. Gives you many more cups of good coffee to the pound—costs you less per cup than coffees that sell for less on the pound.

CONTINUATION OF LETTER FROM MRS. JOSEPH GRAVES HAMILTON TO MR. JOSEPH GRAVES HAMILTON

Just when I reached the point in my letter where I told you I opened the door into the hall, this morning, I was called to consult again with Dr. Samson. He wanted to give me some directions about the baby's milk.

No, dear, I did not go to the Children's Home to get a baby for Leslie, for although you will hardly believe it, as I opened that door last night to go across the hall I found lying in a softly lined basket, a beautiful baby boy.

I gasped. And rushing back, carried the child into Jack's room.

"Look here, boy," I said. "Look what I have found just outside your door."

Jack seemed utterly surprised and asked the usual stupid question. "Why, who put it there?"

"I don't know," Jack. Probably some woman has heard about Leslie's illness and how we were going to find a child for her and thought it would be a splendid place for her own baby. Poor woman! She probably could not care for it. Isn't he a beauty?"

I picked the baby out of the basket. It was evidently about six weeks old. Dressed in very nice, delicate, hand-made clothes. Its mother must have been a fine needle-woman.

It opened its eyes and looked at us. For Jack was bending over my shoulder with his face close to the baby's face, and I was looking at them both.

I became almost hysterical, for at that moment each of them—the man and the baby—switched up the left side of his mouth and wiggled his nose in a ridiculous manner. I had never noticed that Jack did that before, and when I saw it duplicated on the wee features of that baby it seemed something almost uncanny.

Jack put out his hand and touched the baby's mouth; then picked up one of its tiny hands, the fingers of which clasped around his like ten-drills.

"My dear," I said, "it is Providence—nothing else."

"Do you think she'll like him?" asked Jack. "He seems pretty nice, doesn't you think? But why in thunder should any woman leave a baby at our door?" he inquired.

It seemed to me, however, perfectly simple, for our course the papers had been full of Leslie's illness and how she was grieving for her baby.

We sent at once for Dr. Samson, and he advised us immediately to get a woman who was trained in children's nursing; in fact, he offered to go to the hospital and send one that he thought was at liberty.

After this happened, of course, there was no sleep for either Jack or me. Jack hung over the basket in which we again placed the baby, for hours. He seemed to be afraid that it would fly away, and once he declared that he knew it was not breathing. If the child had been his own he could not have been more solicitous. He seemed to feel that in some way fate had solved all his troubles and that Leslie would be as delighted as he the moment she saw the child.

He had the right intuition. For, for the moment the nurse which Dr. Samson sent us took the baby in to Leslie's room, upon her awakening, her face lighted up with a radiant smile.

"Bring him to me—bring him to me quickly," she said. "Where did you get him?"

We told her the entire truth, she interrupting with little giggles of happiness as she held the child to her breast.

"Oh, I can keep him—Jack—can't I keep him?" she asked.

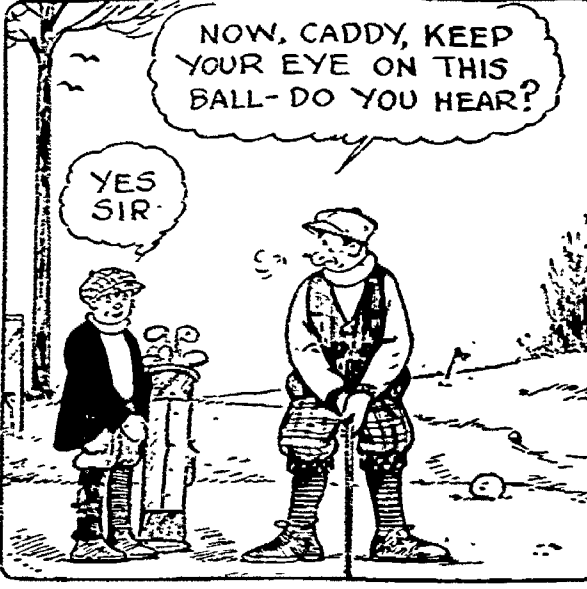

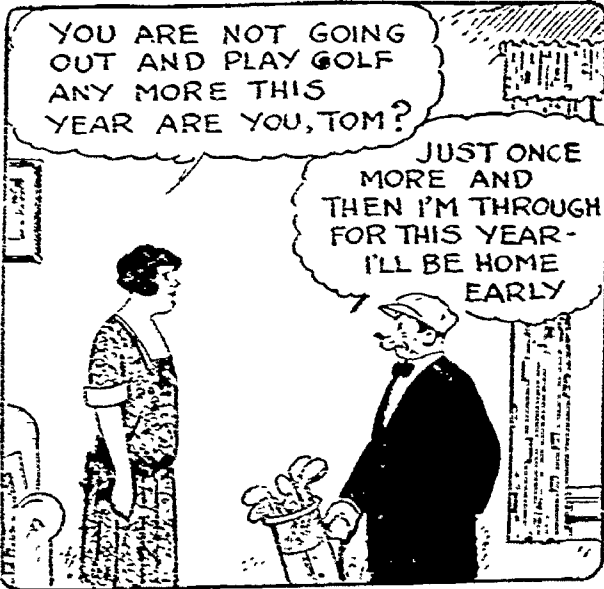

"Of course you can, my dear. You could keep him if he were twins, if it made you happy. You cannot know how I have agonized over you all these weeks."

"Have I been ill weeks, Jack?" she asked in surprise.

"Yes, dear, but it is all over now. Fate has brought you this baby and the baby has brought you back to me."

"Would you like to go with me?" asked Mister Gallop, the cowboy fairy. "I am just starting off on a trip."

"May we take our ponies?" asked Nick, putting Blackie on his soft, glossy neck.

"Certainly," nodded Mister Gallop. "That's what they're for. Jump on, both of you for I'm in a hurry. I can tell you all about my errand while we are riding."

Nancy scrambled up on Snow. Nick jumped on Blackie, and Mister Gallop grunted himself up on his crown and white pants like a circus rider.

"Come on," he called, "follow me. The path is narrow so we can't ride side by side. But I can talk to you anyway over my shoulder."

So off they started up the steep little mountain path that seemed to get narrower and steeper every minute.

"I got word this morning," Mister Gallop called back, "that Mrs. Bear and her two sons, Buster and Burt, had been trout-fishing. Now Tommy Trout and Timmy Trout and all their relatives are great friends of mine and I promised to help them. That's where we are going now. To see if it is true."

"Has Mrs. Bear a fishing 'bee'?" asked Nancy.

"The very best kind," answered Mister Gallop. "Her own house. It's all fixed with five sharp hooks and can't get tangled in the bushes. Once she gets a hold of a trout, it's goodbye Mister Trout. S. We're coming to the creek now. With the

Woman's Impulse For Art, Not Vanity, Reason For Makeup

Jewel Expert Says Color Desire Is Manifesting Itself In Millinery, Gowns, Shoes, Other Things As Well

New York — The reason some women make up their faces in deep ochres and mahogany tones and others imitate the pink and cream hues of the peach is not, primarily, vanity—it's their way of responding to the color impulse.

This is the theory of Harriet Keith Forbes, jewel expert, who has a genius for putting every gem in its most artistic mountain, and who has delved into the history, chemistry and mineralogy of every known stone.

"This color impulse is manifesting itself in millinery, gowns, shoes, accessories and in jewelry," she says. "Women want more color around them, more on their faces, and in their lives. They are getting ready for a renaissance of beauty and gorgeousness such as never has been experienced before."

"Women are learning to wear color more effectively, and are developing much more taste about their facial makeup. The time will come when every woman will work out her own color harmonies and her own personality colors, and then the problem of dressing will practically be solved."

NO PURITAN HERITAGE

The color feeling and the present interest in it is not a heritage from our Mayflower ancestors or Puritan first families. It has been kept alive and aroused in us by the peasants of Czechoslovakia, Russia, Armenia and Italy who have come to our shores and revealed to us its possibilities.

Miss Forbes thinks:

"The love of jewels and the jewelry craft has been fostered by men not women," she went on. "Most men are innately fond of jewels and naturally want to bestow them upon the women they love. And they have taught the women, to care for gems."

"But though men care most for jewels, they lack the taste that women have. That is why for so long so much value has been attached to diamonds—the most impersonal of all jewels. Men have valued them because they represent so many dollar bills."

TIFFANY MONEY COUNTED

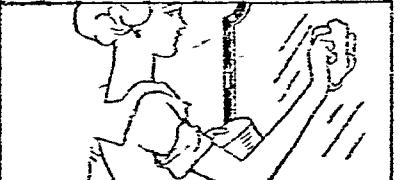

"Formerly men gave women jewelry and these were prized for their actual value. Precious stones were supposed to be becoming to everyone. Today women are more discriminating. They want color and form."

"Jade really was what opened the eyes of most women to the beauty of semi-precious stones. Today they are becoming sensitive to the decorative value of crystal, lapis, coral, opals and other colorful stones by which a woman may bring out her own coloring, and have her jewelry as distinctly of her style as her fashion of wearing her hair."

"The museums are being searched for oriental designs and antique subtleties. Women are getting down to art in fundamentals. We never can go back to an era of Quaker plainness again. Instead we will go further in gorgeous costumes and in facial makeup than ever before. We will do so with much greater intelligence, and with much more telling effect."

Question At Dance Not What To Say But When

"DON'T MAKE THE MAN FEEL HE MUST ENTERTAIN YOU. THE QUIET GIRL IS SELDOM POPULAR AT DANCES."

(This is the third of a series of articles on dance etiquette by a noted ballroom director.)

BY ARTHUR MURRAY
Director, National Institute of Social Dancing

To talk or not to talk—there's the rub in dancing circles.

The answer is, of course, "Yes" and "No."

Sometimes, a moment of graceful and courteous conversation in the dance room is the wedge to enlarged social or business opportunity. The question at a dance, usually, is not so much what to say as when to say it.

When dancing with a young boy, plenty of lively conversation is very acceptable as a rule. The quiet girl is seldom popular at dances of young people, because the young boy does not feel at ease with her.

"DON'T 'HIGHBROW'
Never indict "highbrow" conversation on your partner. It is indeed a stupid girl who poses as a superior person.

The wise girl is clever enough to make the man feel important by subordinating her own opinions and

Stage Manager's Job Latest Which Woman Tackles For Living

Regina Mermel Using It Only As Stepping Stone To Owning Children's Theater—Works At Every Job To Learn Details

New York — Just when you think there can't be any new jobs for women to tackle, and when you despair of locating any more women pioneers to write about, along comes the exception.

The only woman stage manager has just appeared on Broadway—Regina Mermel by name. She's young, pretty, determined and has ideals.

"It's just a means to an end with me," she explains, between jumps for her job consists in attending to all the difficulties of 42 people besides herself.

"To succeed, I believe you have to know all the angles of the business you are in," she goes on. "A banker, or financier, does. He has held the jobs of those under him in authority and he knows how to direct his men. That's the way I'm going to do."

Then it developed that being a stage manager is not the height of Miss Mermel's ambition.

CHILDREN'S THEATER

"I'm going to devote my life to the theater, but what I want to do is to found a children's theater, to be run on the lines of the one in Moscow where plays for children will be put on by the very finest actors obtainable," she says.

One year she was a playbroker.

"I learned all I could about selecting plays, about prices, royalties, copyrights and all that," she tells me. "Then last year I played in 'The Fool' and studied things from the actor's point of view. Incidentally I learned that if you are two inches too short for a part it doesn't make any difference how well you can act it—you won't get it."

"This season I decided I must learn the technique of the back of the stage. So I heard Richard Bennett was managing 'The Dancer' as well as acting in it. I went to him and told him my ambition."

Bennett didn't counsel conservatism, he was open to reason. Stage managing is a detail job, and women are supposed to have a way with details. So he made her the assistant manager of the show.

ORDER DIRECT

"But he did think the stagehands and electricians might object to taking their orders from a woman, so he arranged to have me issue them through a man," she laughs. "The man heard of this and came to me in a body. They said they were perfectly agreeable to taking directions from me, and they have co-operated with me at every step."

Some of her duties consist in getting all the actors ready on time, ringing up the curtain, being ready to prompt or jump into a part if necessary, keeping order in the wings, maintaining discipline and at the same time keeping the members of the cast happy and contented.

"But it's a good job for a woman," she insists. "Women have the necessary patience and tact. But there's no glory in it, and no chance to shine."

Take Core From Apple Before It Is Put In Oven

Remove the cores of apples with a fork before putting them into the oven. They will not burst and will retain their shape.

Since soda costs less than sugar, use it with such acid fruits as plums, gooseberries and rhubarb, so that less sugar will be needed for sweetening. Add a quarter of a teaspoonful of soda to each quart of fruit. You will notice a great difference in the quantity of sugar needed.

When baking fish, place a heavy paper over the bottom of the pan and grease it thoroughly; lay the fish on the paper, and when the fish is cooked it may be removed without any trouble, and the pan washed easily.

After berries are sealed, if a jar is placed on its side, until berries are cool, this will prevent the berries from all coming to the top.

Steam loaf cake instead of baking it. It will never fall, and you do not have to watch it. On removing the pan from steamer, brown a few minutes in the oven.

To get more cream than usual from milk, heat the milk until lukewarm; then suddenly chill it. This will bring more cream to the surface.

When making jelly, cut up paraffin and put in bottom of jelly glass. Fill glass with hot jelly, which melts the paraffin, brings it to the top, and is securely sealed by it.

Whip cream in a fruit-jar by shaking it up and down for about five minutes. This saves much whipping in the ordinary way and also saves the cream, as not a drop escapes.—From the Designer Magazine.

FAT FOODS

Doughnuts, French fried potatoes, or any foods that have been fried in deep fat should be placed on clean paper after being removed from the kettle so that all extra fat may be absorbed by the paper.

If no other inspector is available, a temporary inspector may be selected by the county supervisor of that district.

Idlers and loiterers shall not be permitted in dance halls, and there is to be no dancing with dimmed lights. Soft drink stands may be conducted when licensed by local councils of boards. The cities of Appleton, Kaukauna, Seymour and New London are exempt from dance hall regulation as provided by the state law.

SUNDAY NIGHT DANCES

Chairman Frank Appleton suggested that each town or village could determine for itself if it wanted Sunday night dances. He himself would not have them in the town of Onoda. He said, prior he believed that Sabbath should be respected. Supervisor J. J. Warner in reply said that the provision should be uniform and that no dance hall should be permitted to operate on Sundays. Supervisor John M. Tracy of Appleton would have all dance halls close at 1 o'clock except Saturdays when the hour of closing should be 12 o'clock.

Supervisor Anton Jansen wanted to know why Little Chute should not be exempt of regulation if that village has an ordinance of its own. Chairman Appleton replied that any village existing before the dance hall regulation might be exempted if the board wished to have the ordinance so amended. The state law only provides that cities shall be exempt.

All dance hall regulation should be uniform, it was argued by Supervisor Charles Schultz of Horicon and for that reason would not have villages declared exempt. If a town dance hall is operated satisfactorily, it has no protection against competition from a village dance hall where the regulation may not be so stringent, he said. Supervisor E. A. Grant also declared for uniform regulation.

DRINK WATER IF KIDNEYS BOTHER

Take a Tablespoonful of Salts If Back Pains or Bladder is Irritated

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water. Dr. J. C. Kinney says occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken then you may feel all fine. This famous salts, known as "Kidney Water," is a tonic and a stimulant, sharp pains in the back or stiff headache, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids to help cleanse the kidneys and flush out the body's urinous waste get your kidneys from any pharmacy here. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then art fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also so they no longer irritate, thus often to neutralize the acids in the system relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpressive cannot injure and makes a delightful effervescent drink-water drink. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year. adv.

Beauty Class Interested In Dance Steps

With an illustration of good and bad form of dancing, W. J. Ryan interested the beauty course of Appleton Women's club in good dancing when he talked at the clubhouse Thursday evening. Mr. Ryan discussed the art of dancing, advancing the theory that every person is born graceful but that he becomes awkward through habit.

After his lecture on the proper coordination of mind and body in learning to dance and in dancing, Mr. Ryan had his audience practice some new steps.

HOBBY MAGNATES

MEET AT NEENAH TO ADOPT PROGRAM

Appleton, Neenah, Menasha And Oshkosh Represented In Valley League

Valley hockey magnates meet Friday night at Neenah to arrange a schedule for the four team league established last week at the Oshkosh meeting, and to discuss business matters pertaining to the league. Appleton, Neenah, Menasha and Oshkosh are represented in the wheel.

At the last meeting a committee was selected to devise a system by which the team and league officers might be elected. It was decided that the league should have a president, vice-president, secretary and treasurer, while each team will have a captain, manager and secretary. The committee suggested that after each team had selected its officials, the secretaries get together and cast their votes for their respective clubs. The suggestion was unanimously accepted.

It was further decided that an entry fee of $25 be paid the general association, and that each team should reimburse the other expenses incurred by the league. The national amateur hockey rules of Canada were adopted. Neenah decided to use orange and black as its colors, while the Oshkosh team will retain purple and white. The other clubs represented declared that they would decide this matter by a vote, and will declare their choice Friday night.

The league decided to remain strictly amateur, no professionalism would spoil the sport. By laws and general rules will be adopted at the Neenah meeting.

The Appleton team is led by Walter Bell who has been prominent in winter sports here for several seasons, and backed by the Galpin and Schaffer hardware companies. Lack of a standard size has hampered preparations considerably, but it is possible that the ball grounds at Brandt park may be rented for the purpose.

ORDER PROBE INTO PAYMENT OF COUNTY MONEY TO PARDEE

Highway Committee Chairman's
Resolution Demand Return Of $891.63

Legal action to compel C. A. Pardee to return to the county the sum of $891.63 which, it is alleged, was illegally paid to him from money said to be due the Blake Paving and Construction company, is demanded in a resolution submitted to the county board by P. H. Ryan, chairman of the county-state road and bridge committee. The resolution was referred by Chairman George F. Fiedler to the finance committee, with instructions to carry on an investigation.

It was decided that John E. Hantschel, county clerk, upon the advice of John A. Lonsdorf, district attorney, paid over the money to Pardee from the $2,519.49 which was due the Blake Paving and Construction company, insolvent, for county road construction. Supervisor Ryan declared that the money should have been paid for material and labor and therefore moved that $891.63 be appropriated and turned over to the county-state road and bridge committee, and that the district attorney be instructed to begin action to recover from Mr. Pardee.

The voucher had been signed by Supervisor John Tracy, then acting county chairman, following the death of Chairman D. J. Ryan last spring. Chairman William Beck of the finance committee requested full authority to investigate the matter, as he was informed there was a phase which was not generally known. He was given authority to solicit additional legal advice.

Emphatic indorsement of the American Red Cross and its seventh annual roll call, now in progress, is given by Vilas M. Whaley, commander of the Wisconsin department of the American Legion.

"With the opening of the seventh annual Roll Call of the American Red Cross," Commander Whaley said, "the people of Wisconsin are reminded of the great work of that organization during and since the days of the war. I feel confident that the service men and women of Wisconsin and the public generally will rally to the great cause and aid of an organization which has an enviable record for unselfish service."
